The letter carriers of the U.S. Postal Service totally understand that, because of weather conditions, the food drive collections were down by about 2/3rds. For anyone wishing to donate, letter carriers will continue to collect food for the next week. Leave canned goods at your mailbox and letter carriers will pick it up.

The morning commute was somewhat unique for Wilmington Water Department employees this week, but they didn't have to deal with traffic. Like Washington crossing the Delaware, Wilmington's Water Superintendent Michael Woods (in the bow, with his back to the camera) found it necessary to use water transportation to get to and from the Brown's Crossing Pumping Station in North Wilmington. WILMINGTON - The rains of the past week have resulted in the worst flooding that New England has seen since the 1930's. Nearby cities and towns, such as Lowell, Methuen, and others, have sustained devastating property damage. Governor Mitt Romney, who plans to apply for federal assistance, has reportedly estimated that the damage would be in excess of "tens of millions."

The Town of Wilmington was more fortunate than many of its neighbors, but was by no means immune.

Town departments have spent the last several days scrambling to keep ahead of the flooding. The building on Andover Street that houses the Wilmington Water Department was, ironically, underwater on Monday.

"It was touch-and-go with the Water Department for a little while," Town Manager Michael Cairra said. "All other municipal buildings are okay."

According to Cairra all Water Department equipment remains operational and the public water distribution system did not experience any interruptions.

Flood levels on the Andover Street property rose a couple of inches between Monday and Tuesday, despite the slackening rain, but five or six heavy-duty pumps managed to keep the water confined to the Water Department building's basement. The water continued to pour in the front door, but was routed directly into the basement for the pumps to deal with.

Salem St. residents have beef with Town

Outlet pipe contributes to flooding issue

By CHARLEY VALLAS

WILMINGTON - Pictures and film footage of the record rains and floods were in abundance on the TV news this past weekend and into this week. Wilmington residents were far more fortunate than those folks who live along the Merrimack River, but were not totally without problems. One needed only to drive around town to see roads blocked off, pumps removing the water from basements, and the standing water in many yards. As we all know, when there's no place for the water to go, it just continues to rise.

Such is the case for Tom and Blanche Peck and for their next door neighbor Frances (Fran) Dec on Salem Street. Dec's property extends back from Salem Street and wraps around the Peck residence. Lubbers Brook. The land in approximately 700 feet behind their respective yards flows

SEE SALEM ST. PAGE 16

Tom Peck of Salem Street in Wilmington purchased and packed sand along the back of his house to keep rising waters from flooding his basement. If the Town would remedy an 8-year old problem, Peck says, the situation would be far more tolerable.

The original 'Local Hero'

Cimaglia named 2006 Wilmington Good Guy

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Lou Cimaglia was honored as Wilmington's 2006 Good Guy during Friday evening's 38th Annual Good Guy Award Dinner.

Cimaglia, a Veteran of the first Gulf War, is the founder of Wilmington's Local Heroes; a non-profit organization committed to sending CARE packages to United States servicemen and

Lou Cimaglia, Wilmington's newest Good Guy, was "crowned" on Friday night. Actually, the crown was made by 2005 Good Guy, Chuck DePasquale, to remind his family that he was a Good Guy and therefore should not have to pump gas, do yard work, take out the garbage, etc., etc. (Dick Searfoss photo)

Textron's 'SFW' featured on Discovery Channel

Wilmington company leading the way for the future of weapons

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - The Discovery Channel will be featuring the Sensor Fuzed Weapon (SFW), manufactured in Wilmington by Textron Systems, in an upcoming episode of Future Weapons.

The six-part weekly series airs on Wednesday evenings at 10 pm eastern time (ET), and during alternate dates and times on the west coast, throughout May 2006. The Sensor Fuzed Weapon will appear in The Power of Fear, the sixth episode in the series to air on May 24th at 10 P.M. and May 25th at 2:00 A.M. ET. Details regarding this series or any Discovery Channel programming can be obtained from www.discovery.com.

Filming of the Future Weapons program brought the Discovery Channel's crew to Textron Systems' division headquarters in Wilmington, Massachusetts, to speak with several people involved with SFW's design and development. The crew also worked in conjunction with the Air Force by conducting interviews with key USAF personnel and filming weapons testing while on site at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida. The Power of Fear will be hosted by former Navy SEAL Richard Machowicz.

The SFW is a 1,000-pound smart air-to-ground munition able to target and strike multiple moving and fixed targets over a 30-acre area. Upon being dropped over the target, the SFW sheds its skin and deploys 10 smaller canister shaped objects, known as BLU-108's, each with its own small parachute.

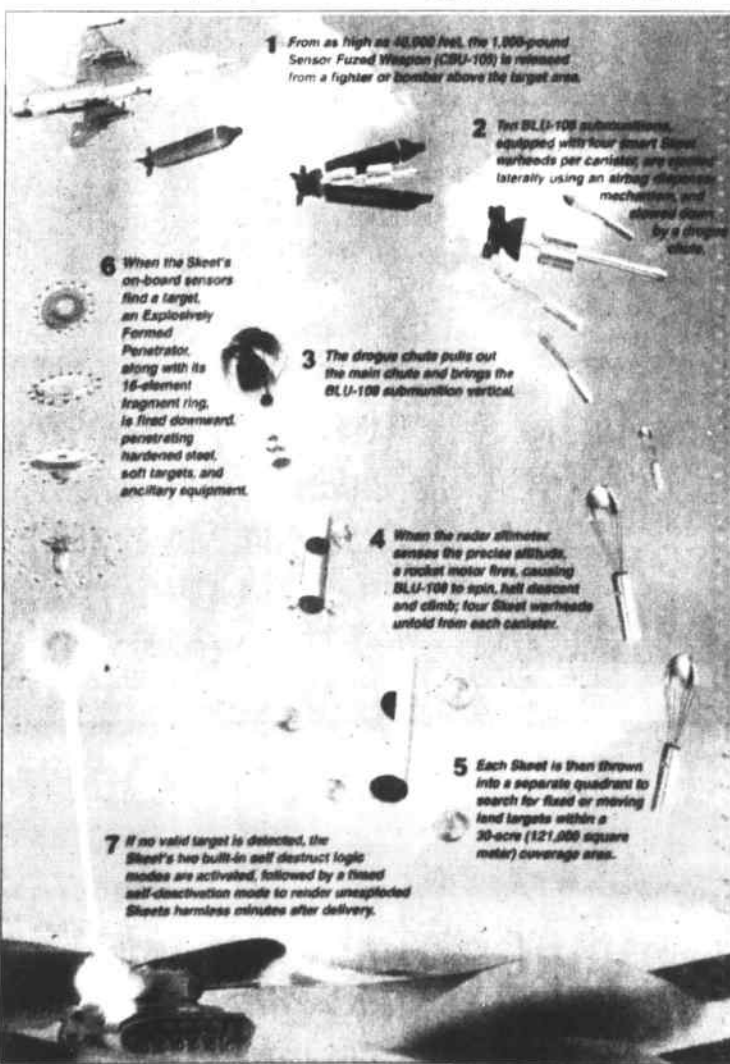

Once it reaches specified altitude, the chute is cut away and the BLU-108 begins to spin cylindrically at a high rate of speed. This helps to slow the descent and allows it to further deploy the four "Skeet" warheads contained in each canister. With the centrifugal force of the spin, the Skeet warheads are thrown out of the BLU-108 like Frisbees. Each Skeet is equipped with sensor technology enabling it to lock onto the thermal signature of a tank or other military vehicle. If no target is found before the Skeet reaches the ground, the self destruct mechanisms kick in. Should every self destruct fail to work, it is equipped with a ished, thus creating a "clean battlefield" for the safety of civilians.

History was made and the SFW received worldwide recognition on April 2, 2003 when the Air Force dropped six SFW's on a column of Iraqi tanks advancing on U.S. military forces. Every tank was effectively destroyed and it marked battery that is depleted after two minutes making the warhead completely inert.

Humanitarians have commended the weapon's multiple self destruct devices, which ensure that no active warheads remain after the battle is finished.

the first time in history that a "smart-guided" cluster bomb was used in combat.

Subsequent operations confirmed the high military value of this unique weapon.

The Town Crier first featured the SFW system in 2004.

It's Your Money

TRIM THE TAXES ON A REAL ESTATE GAIN

When you sell a real property investment for more than you paid for it originally, what is your taxable capital gain? Is it the sale price less what you paid for it? Not exactly.

Certain adjustments can trim the gain that you report. All expenses that went along with the purchase of the property should increase your basis: commissions, appraisals, legal fees, closing costs, recording fees and similar expenses. If the property was inherited, its basis is stepped up to its fair market value at the time of the bequest's death. Add in, too, the cost of any improvements made to the property while you owned it. (You did keep records, didn't you?)

Selling the property engenders deductible expenses, too. The cost of advertising the property and other sales-related expenses, such as fees, commissions and legal expenses should also be deducted from the sales price, reducing the gain—and the tax.

We help smart investors determine how much tax is really due on their capital gains. Let us help you at:

All the eggs were found

Dear Editor:
On Saturday, April 15, 2006, the Recreation Department sponsored the 35th Annual Easter Egg Hunt. Volunteers and Recreation Staff blanketed the Common with filled eggs and candy. When the signal sounded, children ages 6 and under rushed to fill their baskets. In addition to the excitement of "hunting" candy and eggs, children could have found a numbered egg to redeem for an extra treat. The Police Department estimated attendance at 1,000, which included approximately 600 children. The success of an event of this size requires the support of many residents and organizations within town. Special thanks to the Wilmington Police Department, DPW, Public Buildings Department, the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks, the Knights of Columbus, CVS, Brooks Pharmacy, the Everett Lodge of the International Order of Odd Fellows, the Lyman Family, Dunkin Donuts/Baskin Robbins at 195 Main Street and the Dunkin Donuts at 321 Main Street for their generous donations.

We would also like to thank the volunteers who stuffed eggs and scattered candy around the Common. Heartfelt thanks to the Easter Bunny who welcomed youngsters and posed for photos.

Thank you to everyone who helped to make this event a memorable one.

Sincerely yours,
Deborah Cipriani
Recreation Director

Everything's a Story

by Andrea MacMullin

Well, he's back. Or should I say they are back.

Last year I told you about my bold and brazen family of groundhogs that had decided to make the underneath of my front steps their new home. They set up the in-law apartment several years ago and we have been happily living next door to each other ever since.

They're not bad neighbors, exactly. But, living that close to someone there are bound to be some disagreements.

It wasn't enough that for the past two years, the tops of all my flowers have been eaten off. But now, since I don't plant flowers that are to their liking anymore, they have taken a liking to my grass.

And the grass, I might add, has been a bone of contention in our household for the last few years. It seems that the lawn that faces due east without any shade is a little harder to care for.

One fall day I noticed a strange site. Hundreds upon hundreds of birds were pecking away at the front lawn. All I could think of was a Hitchcock movie.

It struck me odd because there had been no recent rain to speak of that would entice birds to come and prey upon the worms. And since the grass had deteriorated to hard chunks of sand, I thought, oh well.

It wasn't until the following summer when we were treating for grubs, (we only did this on the advice of a friend who said it is imperative you do this, even if you don't have them) that I realized that in fact yes, we were infested with grubs.

I remembered the birds from months before and realized what they were feasting on. To make a long story short, we got that under control.

Last year, we re-seeded portions of the lawn not once, but twice. The first time, we used old seed. Live and learn.

By late May of last year our lawn was looking better than it had in years. It was lush and green, and all the bare spots were filling in. We lovingly raked, watered, and mowed it with care.

By the end of June we thought we were home free. But we became a little careless. We let up on the watering a bit, trying to save on the water bill, and it missed a mowing or two. I noticed it looked a little limp one day, and then, it was gone. By the next mowing it was dead. Completely burned. Yellow.

And then it was all crab grass. Apparently you can't put crabgrass preventer down the same year you plant new seed.

So this year with an early dose of weed and feed and eight inches of rain in four days, our lawn is looking surprisingly well. What we thought was dead last year has come back, and it is all grass, with the exception of a few spots that need fresh soil and seed.

And then the groundhog comes out and perches himself in the middle of it and nibbles away, blade by blade. After chasing him away, there are visible flattened and bare spots, all thanks to my friend.

A few weeks ago I had the front door open, letting the sun stream in through the storm window. One of the ground hogs was standing on his hind legs with its nose and front paws pressed against the window, staring in.

He continues to mock me. He will stop at nothing to prevent me from having flowers or grass.

Letters to the editor

Apology needed from Town Counsel

Dear Editor,
After viewing the Board of Selectmen meeting of May 8th on WCTV, I think Town Counsel, Mr. Paul DeRensis, owes the citizens of Wilmington an apology. He said he is being "stalked" by someone from our fair town. Since he did not have the guts to identify who the person or persons are who are making him feel so uncomfortable, I can only assume he thinks everyone in town is guilty. I don't know Mr. DeRensis and I'm fairly certain that he and I will not be sitting down together anytime in the near future to shoot the breeze over a couple of beers. I get the feeling that Wilmington just does not "measure up" to the other towns he represents. After all, the other towns who are his clients have asked him "What's with the Town of Wilmington?"

I have lived here for 30 years and this is the first time I realized that I live in such a despicable place. No, we are not Carlisle or Cohasset, but the money we pay Mr. DeRensis for his services is just as good as theirs and we deserve the same respect he gives them.

Mr. DeRensis said he "lost his shirt" because he was not paid $70,000 for services rendered. I know Brooks Brothers shirts are expensive but $70K for a shirt? I'm pretty sure I could take up a collection from the folks around town and get him a very nice shirt from TJ MAXX down at the Plaza. There might even be enough money left over to get a pair of "Flip-Flops" for his ally, Suzanne Sullivan.

Proud to be from Wilmington,
Thomas W. Walsh

What Olin does with its money

Dear Editor,
I think that the town of Wilmington would be interested in hearing about what the Olin Corporation does with their money. Olin College (http://www.olin.edu/about_olin/overview.asp), in Needham, MA, was started in 2002 with the charter of "preparing future leaders through an innovative engineering education that bridges science and technology, enterprise, and society". The interesting thing about Olin College is that they provide this education FREE OF CHARGE through the F.W. Olin Foundation (http://www.olin.edu/about_olin/olin_foundation.asp), Yes, you read that correctly, Olin College provides a full 4 year college education, free of charge.

My question is, why doesn't Olin provide a few spots for Wilmington residents for the damage that they did to our community. Or have some of their students do projects on the Olin property in Wilmington, to help get it cleaned up.

Sincerely,
Tom Natola

Strings Attached

Dear Editor,
On Thursday, May 11, 2006, at the high school gym, Mr. Dilmore and the over 350 members of Springs Attached provided family and friends with beautiful music at their Annual Spring Concert. We would also like to congratulate the 20 seniors, the highest graduating Strings class yet, that were honored at the concert. Best wishes to all of them and their future endeavors.

Springs Attached Parents Support Group (SAPS) would like to thank Performance Music in Woburn for the donation of a full size violin with case along with a stand for our raffle. We would also like to thank the following Wilmington businesses for their gift certificates: Porchside Sandwich Co., Robert Flaherty Jeweler, Pizza Mia, Hair Xtreme, Rocco's Restaurant, Designs By Don, China Wok, Michael's Place, Peter's Pizza & Roast Beef, All Seasons Florist, Arbonne Skin Care from Stephanie Ackerman and LaCascia's Bakery & Deli in Burlington.

Drowning in rumor

Dear Editor:
I saw a rerun of the Board of Selectmen's May 8th meeting. It's a discussion that the public needs to participate in.

We trust our legal counsel to have our interests, and only our interests, in his/her purview. New England Trans Rail is a prime example of the severity of damage to a town with big guns coming to town with no regard to local by-laws or concerns.

Today, the town counsel-board of selectmen relationship is drowning in rumor. Innuendo is rampant. Be careful of what you accept as fact when you use this as your communication network. Typically, there is a seed of truth; it turns similar to finding the needle in the haystack as the rumors get spun and then spun again.

To me, Mr. DeRensis presented as a man weary of his task and frustrated in working toward the good of both the town and his organization on the one hand. On the other hand, he presented as a salesman defending his product and looking for sales growth and, again, using sales techniques that I question.

I'll dare to touch the holy grails of Wilmington, Olin and Maple Meadow Brook. I spoke with Olin and DEP representatives in 2003 and 2004. They did not present as devils or evildoers. By that time they were weary of the tactics used by our citizens group who were justifiably concerned about something that built up over the last 50 years. It needs to be said: New England Transrail would not be a Wilmington issue today if our activists had not mismanaged the issue. Olin was willing, pre-2003, to work in the interests of both the town and Olin. Given the way Wilmington interests were represented by the activists, and because Olin could, they turned their backs to Wilmington, as did the DEP.

Remember, the road to hell is paved, and paved with good intentions. These good intentions, in this case, came from a group of people who have no experience with organizations, systems, or management of risks. Olin did.

Congratulations to Mr. Newhouse for bringing the topic to the public table.

It was a good conversation.

To me, we may have a legal counsel problem. We do not have "a" town counsel. We have a legal organization working one issue at a time. I've heard dozens of attorney's named as "representing" the town. The Board of Selectmen have the responsibility for containing the issue. Take care.

Sincerely,
Ann L. Yurek

Sullivan & McCoy deserve credit

Dear Editor,
I want to thank the Board of Selectmen for considering upholding our current contract with attorney Mr. DeResnis.

Suzanne Sullivan and Michael McCoy deserve to be singled out for having the foresight to realize what is at stake with keeping this law firm on board. They have shown a serious and diligent concern for the problems the Town is now facing by trying to make the administration realize how important this law firm is.

Mrs. Sullivan outlines the situation of the past very clearly. She was very much on target. NOTHING HAS BEEN DONE FOR YEARS! The residents have brought these very concerns to the Town officials time after time. We addressed the plume at Olin. We spoke about Lake Poly, the lagoon full of contaminants. We feared they would eventually reach our water supply. THEY DID! It closed five wells.

Above everything else, we need to have good quality legal representation for these serious situations. Our current attorney is doing his job. Suzanne has tirelessly worked to try to give all residents a cleaner and healthier environment. This has not been an easy task.

We, as residents, have to uphold what we believe in. We do have a fundamental right to clean air and water. We do have to protect our environment. If not us, then who??

Sincerely,
Vera Scolastico

Town Counsel not asking for raise

Dear Editor,
It continues to amaze me how two people seated inches apart (you and me) at the last Board of Selectmen's Meeting, can come to such totally different conclusions.

Selectman Newhouse may not be embarrassed by his grandstanding but I was embarrassed enough for both of us.

The Environmentalists in the Boston area praise the law firm of Deutsch, Williams and DeRensis (DWD). They say we have the best. I agree.

The Town Counsel is not asking for a raise. The firm has potentially saved the Town millions of dollars by arranging a tolling agreement with Olin, which Selectman Newhouse as Town Counsel had failed to do. They have turned over $200,000 in settlement disputes to the coffers of the Town which could be used to offset Counsel costs.

Folks in Wilmington expect fair play from their Selectmen. Why were the other Board members - in fairness - not given the courtesy of a memo outlining what was to be discussed - after all this was orchestrated by Selectman Newhouse. Was this a gotcha play - well it certainly backfired. Did we need to spend time on a telephone receipt - how petty can you get? DeRensis won this confrontation - no debate about that.

Sometimes in this life you get something for free but most times you get what you pay for. I doubt that the attorneys representing Olin and New England Transrail would even pick up the phone to respond to the same financial arrangements we have with DWD. We are dealing with the Big Boys now - top lawyers - top lobbyists - top dollars. The stakes are high. It does not come cheaply.

How our adversaries must be snickering at Selectman Newhouse's bickering over fees in public. This is not about getting bargain basement inexperienced (we had that) Counsel. This is about winning. Winning because the outcome will affect the future of the Town and the quality of life of every citizen. We want the odds in our favor!

This is about the conscience avoidance and deliberate indifference to Olin, NET and MML by the past administration until it could no longer be tolerated. This is about public outrage. This is about taking control of our Town with input into State and Federal decisions, which affect our destiny. This is a defining moment for our Town. I sleep better knowing we have such an excellent law firm representing us now and for many years to come.

We have grown weary of Selectman Newhouse's relentless, mean spirited attacks on the finest Town Counsel team this Town has ever had. Voters will have the opportunity to express their displeasure over Selectman Newhouse's shameful behavior in eleven months at the Town Elections. There will be no sympathy vote this time.

Sincerely,
Betty M. Bigwood

BY WAYNE MCKENZIE

Fortnight in Review

by Jayne W. Miller

Two weeks, that's a fortnight. Old English, or olde English depending on your droll factor, give us the term fortnight from fourteenth night meaning fourteen nights. Irreverence aside, a 20/20 look in the rear view mirror every two weeks may be just the thing for equanimity.

About two weeks ago residents at town meeting voted to put two school oriented warrant articles (the debt exemption override question for technology and furniture, and the Proposition 2 1/2 override) on the ballot for a special election to be held on June 10. Getting these questions on the ballot, that's the first hurdle. Passing these items, that's something else entirely.

Voters also expressed dismay with several development initiatives, including the cell phone tower erected by Verizon for Sprint usage at the south fire station by voting not to grant an easement enabling Sprint to actually use the tower. Another cell tower article died on the floor for a similar reason. Residents denied a development off Pinnacle for townhouses and refused to rezone a small parcel of land on Andover Street, keeping out what promised to be a quaint ice cream stand.

Residents in Tewksbury organized, rallied, and showed that old New England mettle. I love it. This Yankee ingenuity, a sort of stick-in-your-craw way of getting things done, will take this town back from questionable development. If the votes at Town Meeting are any indication, clearly Tewksbury residents know what they want and what they do not.

Does the town need development? Yes. But SMART growth. With the passage of the Community Preservation Act its time to bring back the Master Plan. Perhaps you haven't heard of the Master Plan, but yes, Tewksbury has one. Completed in 2003, the Master Plan committee developed a comprehensive plan to improve the town through careful development that preserves the comfortable, unpretentious character and semi-rural nature of the town. Readers may view the document online at www.Tewksbury.info and select Master Plan committee from the drop down menu.

If you ever read the posts on Tewksburyissues.org (and if you have not I suggest you run to your computer and check it out right after you finish reading the paper) you may pick up on a somewhat vitriolic vibe against town officials, both elected and appointed. A deep distrust exists from some residents toward elected officials; a distrust revealed four years ago in an early report from the Master Plan committee. This lack of trust makes it difficult for residents to discern the kinds of development that fulfills positive objectives in town rather than just contributing to overcrowding in the schools or creating a drain on already scarce resources.

Putting the Master Plan to work, finally, may help the town transition from deep distrust to smart growth. Residents working together to defeat warrant articles at town meeting shows the power of organization and a shared will. However, rejecting growth for the sake of simply rejecting growth rather than a measured, thoughtful approach hurts the town in the long run.

Without any kind of growth the town stagnates. Additionally, not resolving our lack of affordable housing also opens the door, legally, to more developments and skeptical planning.

Voters arrived en masse to vote for the school related warrant articles. Voters come out when something important to them personally shows up on the warrant. Ipsa Scientia Potestas Est. Knowledge itself is power. Residents must arm themselves with knowledge because when combined with numbers, knowledge brings about revolutions.

What residents need is unbiased guidance to good growth. What projects make sense? How do we mesh the borders between industrial and residential zones? How do we increase our income without selling out? The Master Plan, researched and written by a fair committee over several years, already tackled much of that work. It's time for Tewksbury to take out the plan, dust it off, and start putting it to work.

Let's Hear it!! Your Two Cents...

With the exception of selectman Fiore, is it too much to ask of the remaining selectman and the town council to quit embarrassing the town and themselves any further? It's not too late to grow up and show some respect for each other. That goes for all of you.

Wilmington

Thumbs up to the Wilmington Fire Department and all of the other town departments that kept our heads, and valuables, above water.

Congratulations to Lou Cimaglia on getting the Good Guy award this year. Couldn't have gone to a nicer guy.

Wilmington

It is obvious to anyone who watched that selectman Newhouse has got a problem with Town Counsel. Let's just get over this.

Wilmington

Is there no other law firm that can represent Wilmington? If we are stalking the man, why is he trying to hang onto the job?

Chernobyl Children

On behalf of the Board of Directors, Management Team, staff, and all of our volunteers I want to express to you our heartfelt thanks for your donation of the excellent coverage to the Wilmington fundraiser.

The Chernobyl Children Project is a non-profit 501 (c)(3) organization that provides respite, relief and medical evaluation for children whose health has been affected by the 1986 Chernobyl Nuclear Power Plant Accident. This is a special year for the Project as we commemorate the 20th anniversary of the disaster. Since it began, the Project has helped over 1,200 children from Russia, Belarus and Ukraine and has dramatically improved their quality of life. Your donation will enable us to reach out to more children who need care.

We could not do what we do without the generous support of people like you.

Thank you again for your support of the Wilmington fundraiser. Your tax deductible donation will allow the Project to continue to assist these special children.

Warm regards,

Newhouse: small and petty

Dear Editor,

After attending the Board of Selectmen (BOS) meeting on May 8, 2006 and watching Selectman Newhouse's continued disgraceful personal attack on Wilmington's Town Counsel Paul DeRensis, I would like to express my opinion on what a small petty person I believe Selectman Newhouse to be. It is my opinion that Selectman Newhouse is driven by a personal political agenda shared by himself and the Town Manager, and not the best interest of the citizens of Wilmington to simply keep legal costs down! It is very clear to me that Selectman Newhouse is not interested in "negotiating in good faith" as he paid lip service to several times. In my opinion he is interested in creating new contract terms which are so one sided that attorney DeRensis is forced to walk away out of economic necessity and allowing himself to make the hollow claim that he did not vote against retaining the services of attorney DeRensis.

A political shell game is being played with Wilmington's future and quality of life. The days of the gentleman Town Counsel are over. Wilmington must retain the services of a multi-specialty law firm to represent our interests in regard to Olin Chemical, New England Transrail (NET) and the Maple Meadow Landfill (MML) height limitation by-law. Wilmington cannot afford to have a Town Counsel who is an "employee of the town" and subject to the direction and control of the Town Manager! In my opinion a return to the days of a single Town Counsel will also result in a continuation of the brilliant legal strategy which resulted in Wilmington having five municipal wells shut down due to contamination and not having a tolling agreement in place to preserve Wilmington's rights in the event of a future claim against Olin for the damage done to the Town's environmental resources. In my opinion the short-term cost of defending our long-term rights and quality of life in association with Olin, NET and MML should not be confused with the everyday functions of Town Government and the dollar value of Town Counsel's annual contract.

Selectman Newhouse did not provide advance notice to attorney DeRensis or even his fellow Selectman with what items he was going to discuss in regard to Town Counsel's new contract despite being requested to do so! He referred to attorney DeRensis "as the enemy," but I guess the other Selectmen are also his enemies in the supposed negotiation process. Selectman Newhouse wasted our time by dwelling on such an insignificant item as a 12-minute time entry on a billing record and made the repeated comment that he could "go on and on." Speaking of wasting our time, the gadfly Kevin McDonald was also in attendance at the May 8, 2006 BOS meeting and praised Selectman Newhouse for his efforts to save Wilmington money. Is drawing praise from Wilmington's champion time waster at the annual Town meeting something to be proud of Selectman Newhouse? I also see a pattern of Selectman Newhouse and newly elected Selectman Fiore of hiding from the truth by not producing copies of letters they have received from the state ethics commission. If these men have letters from the state ethics commission exonerating them from any wrongdoing, why won't they release them for public review? Selectman Newhouse failed to grasp the significance of the progress attorney DeRensis has made in defending the Town in regard to the ongoing legal battles with Olin, NET and the MML, which are exceptional circumstances and should not, and in my opinion cannot, be included within a flat rate legal expense budget. The loss of any one of these legal battles could have a domino effect and the loss of other battles or loss of property values through out the Town.

Selectman Newhouse has been relentless in his continuing efforts to discredit attorney DeRensis through such actions as the lengthy verbal exchange with attorney DeRensis at the October 10, 2005 BOS meeting which did not adjourn until 1:50 a.m. on October 11, 2005 and the numerous letters to the editor appearing in February and January 2006 which were authored by Selectman Newhouse and his law partner attorney Daniel J. Veerman. Additionally, at the BOS meeting on April 10, 2006, the Town

Manager's personally appointed Finance Committee chairman chimed in with a recommendation that Wilmington look into retaining the services of another Town Counsel as an employee of the Town to cut costs. In my opinion this has been an orchestrated political attack in an effort to claim legitimacy by presenting numerous half-truths. I have responded to several of these letters to the editor to provide additional facts not noted along with the half-truths presented by attorney's Newhouse and Veerman.

Respectfully,

George G. Lingenfelter

Professional Geologist

Editor's note: as a clarification, the town manager does not have appointing authority to the Finance Committee. A candidate for membership to the Finance Committee must receive majority endorsement from the Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, the Town Moderator and the Chairman of the Finance Committee. The Chairman of the Finance Committee is then designated by a majority vote of the Finance Committee.

Century 21 Starwood welcomes Beth McGaffigan

WILMINGTON - Century 21 Starwood is pleased to announce Beth McGaffigan has joined its firm as a sales associate. She will specialize in residential property sales in the Wilmington / Tewksbury area.

"We are thrilled to have Beth join our team," said Maureen Foresteire and Ralph Newhouse, Owners. "It's an exciting time to be with the Century 21® System as we increase our market presence in Wilmington."

McGaffigan just successfully completed extensive training and licensing through American Real Estate Academy of Waltham, MA. The course required 24 classroom hours and covered various topics such as Massachusetts law, financing, deeds, and market evaluations.

Maureen and Ralph added, "We believe training supports growth and professional excellence in the real estate industry. Performance-based training is necessary to assure that Century 21® associates maintain their competitive edge and offer the best service possible to their clients/customers."

Beth is a resident of Tewksbury where she lives with her husband and young family. She is detail oriented with great problem solving skills. She looks forward to helping her clients with what is surely the largest investment of their lives. Her goal is to provide clients/customers with a professional experience and a high level of service.

Prior to working in real estate Beth was a sales executive for a Boston office furniture company. Specializing in corporate accounts, she managed million dollar accounts locally and nationally. She has a B.S. in Communication Studies from Emerson College. Beth is an active member of Saint Roberts parish, a Girl Scout leader and an avid, but not necessarily good, golfer.

Century 21 Starwood is a full service real estate brokerage company specializing in residential, commercial, fine homes, etc. properties, located at 299 Main Street in Wilmington, MA. Feel free to contact Beth at (978) 657-8444 or by e-mail Beth.McGaffigan@Century21.com

Century 21 Real Estate LLC (www.century21.com) is the franchisor of the world's largest residential real estate sales organization, providing comprehensive training, management, administrative and marketing support for the Century 21 System. The System is comprised of more than 7,800 independently owned and operated franchised broker offices in 42 countries and territories worldwide. Century 21 Real Estate LLC is a subsidiary of Candant Corporation (NYSE: CD).

Food Allergy Awareness Week

May 14th through the 20th

Food Allergy Facts:
• Food allergy is a growing public health and food safety concern in the U.S. Scientists are reporting a doubling of food allergy over the past decade, particularly peanut allergy.

• Approximately 12 million Americans suffer from food allergy, with 6.9 million allergic to seafood and 3.3 million allergic to peanut or tree nuts.

• Food allergy is the leading cause of anaphylaxis (a severe allergic reaction) outside the hospital setting. Other causes of anaphylaxis include insect sting, latex, exercise, medication, and idiopathic reactions (no cause identified).

• Eight foods account for 90% of all reactions in the U.S.: milk, eggs, peanuts, tree nuts (walnuts, almonds, cashews, pistachios, pecans, etc.), wheat, soy, fish, and shellfish.

• Food allergy reactions result in over 30,000 emergency room visits each year.

• It is estimated that between 150 and 200 people die annually from anaphylaxis to food, including children and young adults.

• Approximately 3 million school-aged children have food allergy.

• One in every 17 children under the age of 3 has food allergies.

• Teens and young adults with peanut or tree nut allergy and asthma appear to be at increased risk for severe or fatal allergic reactions.

• Trace amounts of the food allergen can cause a reaction. Patients should be on guard for hidden ingredients (such as milk or peanuts) in unsuspected places such as candy, baked goods, trail mixes, sauces, desserts, and gravies, to name just a few.

• Most individuals who have had a reaction ate a food they thought was safe.

• Studies have shown that early administration of epinephrine (adrenaline), available by prescription as EpiPen or Twinject, is key to successfully treating anaphylactic reactions.

• The majority of patients don't have written plans from their doctor for preventing and treating reactions.

• There is NO CURE. Strict avoidance of the allergy-causing food is the only way to avoid a reaction. Until there is a cure, EDUCATION and AWARENESS will save lives. These statistics are estimates for the U.S. only.

Tewksbury students raised $7,000 in Walk for Hunger

The students of The Self-Defense Institute, who are also residents of Tewksbury raised an amazing $7,000 and walked 20-miles on Sunday, May 7, 2006, for the Project Bread Walk for Hunger in Boston. A lot of fun was had for a serious cause.

Tewksbury's residents, Ryan School students, Wynn Middle School students, Tewksbury Memorial High School students, and Shawsheen Tech students include: Christopher Adams, Sean Bender, Mark Bender, Helen Bender, Christopher Bender, Tia Brooke, Cody Brooke, Christopher Chan, Mr. Chan, Sarah D'Amico, Geoffrey Ducharme, Ken Ducharme, Stephanie Patenaude, Jimmy Ferreira, Jim Ferreira, Nicole Howe, Carol Ann Howe, Karen Lippincott, Charlie Marquis, Carol Marquis, Craig McGehee, Sean McGehee, Alan McGehee, David Morris, Renee Brooks, Michael Morris, Jimmy Peters, Kathy Peters, Jim Peters, Lindsay Romano, Cheryl Romano, Christopher Romano, Greg Romano, Richard Silk, Roberta Silk, Ben Sullivan, Sue Sullivan, Alan Szymt, Michael Szymt, Stephen Tecce, Sensei Jeff Davis, and Sensei Deb Davis.

The Self-Defense Institute, located next to the U.S. Post Office at MGM Plaza, 1721 Main Street, Tewksbury, MA, focuses the training of all students on the principles of character.

Your character is defined by your actions, not your words.

Good character requires that you do the RIGHT thing, not the convenient thing.

You choose the person you want to be by making choices that reveal your good character.

Good character gives you the strength to achieve greatness.

When you actively work to develop good character, you lead and inspire others, you have the potential to become whoever you want to be, people admire you and want to be around you, and you make the world a better place.

To leave your mark on the world, work on character building skills.

The character qualities consistently reinforced at The Self-Defense

Institute include: confidence, discipline, courage, integrity, courage and loyalty. Sensei Deb and Sensei Jeff are public speakers on the topics of self-defense (for college/high school/middle school, and grammar school students), personal safety and awareness for adults and children.

For more information on character development training see www.tsdiOnLine.com or call 978-863-1460.

party at Tewksbury Memorial High School's cafeteria. Club officers for the 2006-2007 season were elected. This year's vice president Raymond Xu moved up to become president. Shane Riddle traded the treasurer's duties for those of a vice president. Three year veterans Ben Judge and Alex Buehler also were elected to leadership positions. Ben is also a vice president and Alex will handle the finances as treasurer. The team wished outgoing president Andrew Minichino good luck in his college career. The elections were administered by former officers and now Northeastern University engineering students Nick Pappas and Eric Mistretta. The students thanked all the mentors with photos and tokens of appreciation, especially those mentors present - parents, Dennis Morin and Bob Buehler, engineers Armando Alcantar and Marilyn Maguire, and college mentors Nick Pappas and Eric Mistretta. Parents Bob Judge and Chris Lobdell were also thanked for their efforts during the season. Faculty Advisor, John Morgan, who is leaving TMHS at the end of this

OBITUARY

Ann T. Willis

Retired from Sweetheart Plastics; 82

TEWKSBURY - Ann T. (Ardizzone) Willis, age 82, a resident of Tewksbury for four decades, died Wednesday morning, May 17, at the Stoughton, Mass., home of her daughter and son-in-law, surrounded by her family, after a long period of declining health. She was the wife of the late Robert H. Willis, who died on February 9, 2000.

She was born in Chelsea, on April 24, 1924, a daughter of the late Sam and Mary (Magno) Ardizzone. She lived in Dorchester, before coming to Tewksbury in 1965.

For more than 25 years, she worked in production at Sweetheart Plastics in Wilmington, where she held the position of Supervisor when she retired.

In her later years, she was a member of the Red Hat Society in Tewksbury, and a frequent visitor to the Tewksbury Senior Drop-In Center.

She, along with her late husband, were world travelers, and were proud to have circumnavigated the globe twice.

She is survived by her daughter and son-in-law, Mary and James Paquette of Stoughton; a granddaughter, Susan Paquette of Stoughton, a grandson, Keith

Paquette of Bridgewater; a sister, Lucy Checcio of FL; and many nieces and nephews.

She was also sister of the late Jeanne Piccirello, and Guy Ardizzone.

Relatives and friends will be received on Friday morning, May 19, from 10:00 a.m. until 12:00 Noon in the Tewksbury

Funeral Home, corner of Dewy and Main Sts. (Rte. 38) Tewksbury Center, phone (800 or 978) 851-2950. Her Funeral Service will be held Friday at Noon in the Funeral Home.

Burial will follow at Tewksbury Cemetery. Memorials to the Old Colony Hospice, 1 Credit Union Way, Randolph, MA 02368, will be appreciated.

Legislation introduced to dissolve NESWC

Senator Tarr and Representative Finegold at the forefront - Tewksbury & Wilmington trash disposal to be affected

BOSTON - The North East Solid Waste Committee (NESWC) announced that legislation was introduced last week at the State House to formally dissolve NESWC.

The NESWC project was conceived in the 1970s as a regional solution to solid waste management issues in the Commonwealth. Twenty-three communities signed identical twenty-year service agreements for disposal of the non-recycled portion of their municipal solid waste at a waste-to-energy facility in North Andover, Massachusetts. Unfortunately, due to lower than expected energy revenues at the facility, and assignment of all the project financial risk to the municipalities, the communities ended up paying as much as twice the state average for solid waste disposal. Those service agreements ended in September 2005.

"The project turned out to be far more costly than originally conceived, and nobody is sorry to see NESWC go away. But it could have been much worse," said Andrew Brydges, NESWC Executive Director. "The NESWC Board of Directors and the NESWC Legislative Caucus deserve enormous credit for their efforts to develop creative solutions to the unprecedented challenges of the project."

Those solutions included refinancing the project debt, pursuing financial settlements from the electricity company, and developing the first in the state permanent household hazardous waste collection facility. In 1997, the NESWC Legislative Caucus was formed to represent the communities' interests at the State House.

Senator Bruce Tarr, NESWC Legislative Caucus Co-chair, said, "NESWC has been a remarkable example of what communities and legislators can do together in the face of adversity. Solid waste management is a critical public service, and as legislators we're pleased to have provided assistance where we could to NESWC to help them manage their waste in an environmentally and economically sound manner."

Representative Barry Finegold, House Caucus Co-Chair, agreed, adding that "the NESWC project was a heavy burden to bear, and in addition to overcoming the economic challenges, the communities are to be commended for their significant efforts to increase recycling and reduce the toxicity of the waste stream."

"We are truly grateful to the NESWC Legislative Caucus for their efforts on behalf of the communities," said Robert Moroney, Chairman of the NESWC Board of Directors. "Under their guidance and with their support, NESWC was able to institute a comprehensive strategic plan to make the most of a very unfortunate situation."

Among the most important efforts of the Legislative Caucus was the establishment of the Waste to Energy Grant Program as part of the Electric Restructuring Act of 1997 to promote a cleaner environment, help ensure a more diverse energy generation portfolio and help reduce fiscal pressure on municipal budgets. The Massachusetts Technology Collaborative (MTC) administered that program, which reimbursed communities throughout Massachusetts for costs related to required pollution control retrofits at in-state waste-to-energy facilities. Under that program, NESWC received over $17.6 million, which kept disposal costs from spiraling further.

Most of the NESWC communities signed follow-on disposal contracts with Wheelabrator North Andover Inc. to continue to dispose of waste at the North Andover facility through June 2010, though under substantially different terms than the original contract. Under the current contracts, a fixed price per ton is charged each year that is approximately half of what the communities ended up paying in the final years of the NESWC contract.

The NESWC communities were: Acton, Andover, Arlington, Bedford, Belmont, Boxborough, Burlington, Carlisle, Dracut, Hamilton, Lexington, Lincoln, Manchester-by-the-Sea, North Andover, North Reading, Peabody, Tewksbury, Watertown, Wenham, Westford, West Newbury, Wilmington and Winchester.

The weather this past weekend resulted in about a 10 percent decline of donations for the Post Office Food Drive. Jill Manganelli, Monica Folk and Mike Barry were on the lookout for the next truck to arrive. More than 20 volunteers were inside the Swain School waiting to lend a hand, but there was little to do.

Both Tewksbury and Wilmington postal employees will continue to collect donations this week on their regular routes. Please give generously.

Book Discussion of Sense and Sensibility

All Janeites are invited to a discussion of Sense and Sensibility with Library Director Tina Stewart on Thursday, May 25, at 7 p.m.

Almost 500 Friends

If Joy Lemay, Friends of the Library Membership Chair, recruits at least 10 more people to join the Friends of the Library by the end of June, the Friends' membership will be 500 strong! As an incentive to reaching this goal, the Friends Executive Board will present the 500th member with a Friends' book bag that the winner can fill with donated paperbacks of his/her choice. If you have been thinking about joining the Friends of the Library, join now and help this terrific organization to reach its June 30th goal! The size of the Friends' membership directly impacts the kinds of programs, services and improvements that the library is able to provide. Membership application forms are available at the library and may be dropped off at the main circulation desk or you can print the application form available on the library's website www.wilmingtonlibrary.org.

WiFi at WML

Wilmington Memorial Library is a hot spot providing free wireless Internet access. Patrons must have a notebook laptop computer or other wireless device with 802.11b or 802.11g wireless networking in order to connect to the Internet via the wireless access. Although there are a few outlets available to plug in your laptop in the adult computer area, we suggest that you have your laptop battery charged, providing more location options to use the Wi-Fi. For more information about the library's Wireless Policy and FAQs, please check the library's website at www.wilmingtonlibrary.org.

Gardening Books

Over 50 people came to the library on April 26 to hear Master Gardener Paul Split's presentation on organic gardening. Given the interest in this topic, the following is a list of some of the library's new gardening and lawn maintenance books.

Tewksbury Library Notes

—by Elisabeth DesMarais

Where do all those books come from?

For over 125 years, the Tewksbury Public Library has served the reading and research needs of local residents with an annual appropriation from the Town. The library depends on the Town for salaries and normal operating expenses. However, many services, materials and programs offered by the library are funded with other sources, including donations, fund-raising, and grants.

New on the library's website, www.tewksburypl.org, is a page called Donations to the Tewksbury Public Library. Here you will find information on several ways to help enhance library services, including recognizing a child's birthday with a book donated in his name.

One source of donations that sometimes surprises people is read in an obituary notice that "memorial donations may be made to the Library Gift Fund." The two funeral homes in town, Tewksbury Funeral Home and Farmer and Dee, have cards for these memorials. Details can be found on the library's website, at <http://www.tewksburypl.org/general/webdonations.htm>.

The single most frequent gift is the donation of gently used books. Library staff members sort through to see which donations match the library's Materials Selection Policy, also found on the website. Some items are added to fill gaps in the library's collection and some are used to replace well-worn older copies.

Other used book donations are set aside for the monthly used book sales sponsored by the Friends of the Library, while yet others are held aside for the annual Summer Give-Aways located at the library's front entrance.

For the past thirty years, the Friends of the Library have led fund-raising efforts for the public library. For the current calendar year, the Friends will provide $6,000 to fund several library initiatives. Some of these include performers for children's programs during the summer, as well as craft materials and supplies for other Children's Room projects. One of the most gratifying fund-raisers sponsored by the Friends was the Penny Drive during the capital campaign for the "new" library. In a short three-and-a-half years, the Penny Drive brought in more than two million pennies ($22,000) which was used to defray the cost of original equipment and furnishings in the Children's Room.

This year, additional museum passes will be added to the library's offerings with the Friends' gift, and the library's 25-year old television and VCR will be replaced. The Friends will continue to support the Chess Club, the monthly Adult Book Discussion Group, and Book Buddies, our children's book group.

In the previous two years, the Friends have funded ten thousand dollars worth of items ranging from equipment to provide wireless Internet access—WiFi—to new book trucks. A microfiche reader, funded by the Friends, is used for researching old newspapers, and environmental equipment for monitoring temperature and humidity in the Local History Room has also been donated.

As a 501 (c) (3) non-profit organization, the Friends of the Library are eligible for matching funds, and several families in town have made generous donations that are then matched by their employers. Computer equipment and furniture has been purchased with donations to the Library Gift Fund.

Another source of library funding comes from the sometimes painstaking effort of filling out grant applications. The Children's Room is able to provide many programs funded through generous grants from the Community Partnership for Children and the Family Foundations Network. Salary expenses for opening the library on Sunday afternoons during the school year are covered by a grant from the state.

While not on the magnitude of the $2.3 million dollars received in 1996 for building construction costs, library staffers are currently awaiting news on grants from Staples and from Hannaford Brothers.

During the Penny Drive, the slogan was used, "No gift is too big, or too small." We hope you will consider making a donation to the Tewksbury Public Library.

Representative James Miceli will hold office hours for the Town of Tewksbury, Tuesday May 23rd from 9:30 - 11 a.m. at Tewksbury Town Hall and also from 7:30 - 9 p.m. at Tewksbury Town Hall.

Competitive Edge Real Estate Services opens in Tewksbury

Competitive Edge Real Estate Services of Tewksbury held their Grand Opening ceremonies on May 11, 2006 at their new office location, 1120 Main Street in Tewksbury Center.

The event was well attended by State Reps Jim Miceli and Brian Finegold, Sheriff Jim DiPaola, as well as many local realtors, business owners and a large contingent of family and friends. A ribbon cutting ceremony was held followed by an Open House luncheon that was enjoyed by all.

Broker/Owner Diane LeBoeuf stated that "At Comp Edge Real Estate, we are committed to straight forward and open communication. We offer expert advice to our clients regarding current market trends. Projections are that 2006 will be the 3rd highest yielding year in real estate history. Buyers are being cautious in trying to balance between anticipated price corrections and an increase in interest rates. It is a fine line but perfect time to buy because there is a huge inventory to choose from, allowing for a strong negotiating platform. Realistic and knowledgeable sellers will reap the windfall. We have all heard the number one term in real estate...location, location, location; well timing is a very, very close second."

"Thank you to all who attended and made our Grand Opening so successful," she concluded.

Tewksbury Senior Topics

The Council on Aging will hold its regular monthly meeting May 18th, at the Senior Center (White House) beginning at 3:30 p.m. All are welcome.

Those Seniors traveling to the Cape Cod State Walking Rally May 19th, are reminded that the bus shall depart from the Livingston Playground parking lot at 7:00 a.m. One is also reminded to wear comfortable shoes and clothing.

Residents are reminded that the Recycle Committee will be holding an "Earth Day" at the DPW, this Saturday, May 20th. For details one may call the Board of Health at 978-640-4470.

Those people signed up for Eileen Griffin's second design Jacket painting class are reminded that the class starts next Tuesday, May 23rd, beginning at 12:30 p.m.

The "Crazy Hearts Quilt" drawing took place last Friday at the activities meeting. Dick Mackey was the recipient of this wonderful quilt which was made and donated by the quilting class.

Those Seniors working on the Parade Floats are reminded that the floats will be assembled on Saturday, May 27th, beginning at 9:00 a.m. Additional information on the Seniors participation in this year's Memorial Day Parade will be noted in next week's column.

The Senior Citizens will hold their next Breakfast Benefit on Sunday, June 4th, from 7:30 to 11:00 a.m. at the Tewksbury Rod and Gun Club, 79 Chandler Street. This event is open to the public. All proceeds benefit the Senior Center Building Fund.

Tickets are available for the following Senior Center trips: (1) Wrentham Outlets next Wednesday, May 24th at $5 with lunch on one's own at the outlets; (2) Castle Island State Walking Rally on Thursday, June 8th at $5 with lunch on one's own; and, (3) Hampton Beach on Monday, June 19th at $4 with one on his/her own to shop, have lunch and visit the beach with a special feature of the seeing the Hampton Beach Annual Sand Sculpture display.

Table reservations are now being accepted for the Senior Center Yard Sale which will be held at the Tewksbury Hospital Old Chapel on Saturday, June 10th. The table fee is $15.

This event is held rain or shine. One may call 978-640-4482 for more information.

AARP Volunteer Driving Instructor, Nancy M. Doherty will be offering a two day "Mature Driving Course" at the Tewksbury Senior Center (White House) on Tuesday, June 20th and Tuesday, June 27th, from 8:30 to 12:30 p.m. This course is open to Tewksbury Seniors and to Seniors from surrounding towns. The course will focus on the aging process affecting hearing, eyesight, driving response time and how to recognize and compensate for these conditions. It will also cover ROAD RAGE which is an extremely important factor today! This class will be limited so don't wait too long to sign up. This is a class well worth taking. The cost is $10 per student with workbook and there is no testing. One may now sign-up at the Senior Center.

A seminar on reverse mortgages will be held at the Senior Center (White House) 460 East Street on Friday, June 23rd, at 1:00 p.m. One is asked to call the Senior Center at 978-640-4480 to register for this seminar.

The Carnation Belles two year calendar (June 2006 to June 2008) will be available by the end of May. Calendar orders are now being taken. Order forms are available at the Senior Center, the Town Crier and various business establishments in Tewksbury. All proceeds from this calendar will benefit the Senior Center Expansion Project.

The following Red Hat trips and events are scheduled: (1) Participation in the Town Memorial Day Parade on Monday, May 29th. Those Carnations Belles planning to ride the Red Hat Float or march are asked to please make their intentions known as soon as possible. (2) The Newport, R.I. Flower Show on Saturday, June 24th. This trip includes motorcoach transportation and lunch at the Atlantic Beach Club. The trip cost is $69. A deposit of $29 will hold one's space. (4) The Hu Ke Lau Restaurant in Chicopee on July 23rd. The trip cost is $53 and includes motorcoach transportation, lunch and a show.

God Bless America.

The Platinum Door opens

A full-service day spa comes to Wilmington

By VICTORIA ELLSWORTH
WILMINGTON - What's behind the Platinum Door? Luxury, pampering, comfort and relaxation. That's what partners Mary Hancox, Jean Ferrara and Beth Ina promise clients of their new business venture: The Platinum Door Salon & Day Spa.

The Platinum Door is the first full-service day spa to open in Wilmington and the three partners consider it to be most innovative salon and day spa in the area. The salon offers "one stop shopping" for one's beauty and wellness needs. Some of the services available include massage, manicures, pedicures, facials, body wraps, waxing, skin care and hair care for men and women. In addition to these offerings, The Platinum Door also sells such quality items as Bumble and Bumble hair care products and Phytomer marine-based skin care products.

Besides being a new business in town, The Platinum Door is also a story of sisterhood, friendship, and good old Wilmington ties. The three women behind the Platinum Door are Mary (Connell) Hancox, Jean (Aprile) Ferrara and Beth (Miano) Ina. All three women grew up in Wilmington, attended Wilmington public schools and graduated from Wilmington High School (Jean graduated in 1973 and is Mary's sister. Mary and Beth graduated in 1983 and have been the best of friends since the age of five.)

Now a resident of Middleton, Mary was a former partner in the Hair Designs Salon in Wilmington. A master stylist and licensed esthetician, she brings over 20 years worth of knowledge and experience in the beauty and wellness industry.

Jean, a life-long Wilmington resident and licensed massage therapist, graduated from the Healing Touch Institute in 2004. Jean specializes in Swedish massage. She has received additional training in neuromuscular and deep tissue massage. She is also a Level I Reiki practitioner and a member of the Associated Massage Bodywork Professionals.

Beth, also currently living in Middleton, graduated from Southern New Hampshire University with a baccalaureate degree in Marketing. She has over 12 years of advertising, marketing, sales, and business management experience, most recently with Ziff Davis Publishing Company.

They've shared a lifelong vision of opening a day spa and have combined their talents to bring their dream to fruition. Mary says, "After losing my husband (Stephen Hancox, Wilmington High Class of 1983) last spring, I felt there was no time like the present to pursue our dream."

Indeed, Stephen shared Mary's vision. They named the spa as part of a mock business plan that Mary wrote for a school project. As Beth puts it, "The name was inspired by an episode of Frasier in which the Crane brothers visit an exclusive new spa and, while enjoying the gold-level, exclusive services wonder, 'What's behind the platinum door?'" The Platinum Door became the name.

"The name is a tribute to Stephen," Mary agrees, "It's a name he was proud of."

And it's a business of which all three women are proud.

"Our philosophy," says Jean, "is to provide a welcoming environment in which clients can escape the daily stress of their lives and be pampered into overall relaxation."

We believe it is imperative for one to find a balance in his or her life. When people feel good about themselves, it is reflected in every aspect of their day. The Platinum Door Salon & Day Spa will help its clients reduce stress, give them that well-deserved time to treat themselves, and make them look and feel the best that they can.

The spa's Middlesex Crossing (10 Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington) location offers a very different spa setting. Its serene, luxurious atmosphere invites patrons to come in and lose themselves in calming comfort. The Platinum Door's Grand Opening is Tuesday, May 23, 2006. You can check out the website, www.theplatinumdoor.net for a full list of services and prices or call them at 978-621-7602.

Textron's 'SFW'

During an interview with Frank Tempesta, Chief Operating Officer of Textron Systems, the Crier was shown a video of the SFW in action.

At one point in the video, a deployed Skeet had locked onto a target and began heading toward it. Approximately 10 to 15 feet above the target, the inside of the Skeet itself became, for lack of a better descriptive word, a bullet. The insides of the Skeet shoot at the target at between 6,000 and 7,000 feet per second leaving only an empty shell casing to float down to the ground.

Tempesta described it as an "EFP," or Explosively Formed Penetrator. The video replayed the action in slow-motion, allowing the naked eye to see that the insides of the Skeet are hurled with such force, they actually transform into a tear-drop shape and drive straight through any and all armor in order to reach the target.

The Skeets are not much wider or taller than an average coffee can.

In the past, fighter planes engaging tanks or other armored vehicles would be forced to make multiple sorties over a convoy, and were able to aim at only one target with each successive pass. The danger to a pilot increases dramatically with each pass.

Since each SFW deploys a total of 40 Skeet warheads, the pilot's exposure is greatly reduced. With one pass the pilot is able to clear a 30-acre area of tanks, soft skinned vehicles, including parked aircraft, mobile radars and jammers, air defense vehicles and support vehicles.

Textron Systems has no explosives or munitions in the Wilmington location. The Wilmington location employs approximately 1,000 people and specializes in the design and electronics aspects of weapons as well as electro-optical systems for airborne surveillance.

About the Sensor Fuzed Weapon

Known as CBU-97 and CBU-105, Textron Systems' Sensor Fuzed Weapon is the first and only combat-proven smart area weapon of its kind in U.S. Air Force inventory designed to accurately detect and defeat multiple stationary or moving land threat targets. SFW's demonstrated lethality against armor makes CBU-105 an important force-multiplying capability for the warfighter. Its 40 smart Skeet warheads have both a hard and soft target capability and are equipped with two self-destruct modes and a self-neutralization feature to leave no hazardous unexploded ordnance on the ground, resulting in a clean battlefield.

Water Department employees were able to work, despite the temporary loss of the building's telephone system, but access to and from the building was by boat only. Aside from that, according to Water Department Superintendent Michael Woods, it was business as usual.

"There has been a little bit of inconvenience, and there will be a lot of clean-up to do after the water recedes," Woods said.

Meanwhile, the Fire Department has responded to hundreds of calls for residential assistance and has worked non-stop assessing each situation and pumping out basements in which the oil/gas burners or electrical outlets were in danger of being submerged.

"The fire fighters in our department have been excellent," Fire Chief Daniel Stewart said. "Many off-duty fire fighters came in to help out."

The department was especially prepared this year, thanks to a recent FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency) grant, which paid for three new heavy duty, high volume "mud hog" pumps.

"There was great interdepartmental cooperation throughout the emergency," Stewart said.

The Public Buildings Department provided a box truck with lift gate to the Fire Department, which eased the transportation and operation of the mud hog pumps.

Stewart described Wilmington residents as generally well equipped, with sump pumps and such, for dealing with flood conditions.

"Houses with gutter systems, which divert the roof-water away from the home, weathered the flood conditions far better than those without," Stewart said. "Residents can use this experience to evaluate their properties and purchase additional pumps if necessary."

The Department of Public Works (DPW) was running a full crew non-stop as well. Several roads were closed due to washout conditions, including sections of Woburn Street, Concord Street, Wildwood Street, and Glen Road.

Wildwood Street was still closed as of Tuesday afternoon. Stewart offers credit to the DPW for keeping the flooding to a minimum, when compared to Wilmington's neighbors.

"Over the years, the DPW has upgraded most of, if not all, the culverts in town," Stewart said.

"Those improved culverts allowed for continual water flow, despite the overwhelming conditions. Twenty years ago, this amount of water would have been devastating to the town."

Stewart expects FEMA representatives to be in the area evaluating the damage over the next several days. Residents who have sustained property damage as a result of the recent flooding are encouraged to contact the Fire Department dispatch at 978-658-3346.

women who are serving overseas and who have a tie to Wilmington. Local Heroes has shipped nearly 2,000 packages to date and has spent over $70,000 in postage alone. The organization also assists the families of active service men and women here at home.

In addition to his leadership role in Local Heroes, Cimaglia is a member of Wilmington's 4th of July Committee, a member of the Knights of Columbus, and coaches youth baseball and football. His affiliation with Wilmington Pop Warner spans nearly a decade.

In determining Cimaglia as the 2006 recipient of Wilmington's highest honor, the Good Guy Committee, comprised of previously named Wilmington Good Guys, reviewed nomination letters submitted by the general public.

The Knights of Columbus was packed with nearly 200 friends, families, and Cimaglia supporters. Senator Bruce Tarr, Representative Jim Miceli, Town Manager Michael Caira, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen Raymond Lepore, and Selectman Michael Newhouse were just a few of the public officials to pay tribute at the podium.

Other notable figures to speak included Joe Steen representing the American Legion, Bud Callahan and Al O'Connor representing the Wilmington Knights of Columbus, Steve Ahern representing the Ahern Family Charitable Foundation, Paul Bergeron representing Camp Curtis Guild, Scott Garratt representing the Wilmington 4th of July Committee, and others. Stephen Bjork acted as Master of Ceremonies.

Even young Nick Cimaglia, Lou's son, spoke on behalf of his father. Within his speech outlining some of his father's best qualities, Nick cited his father's official hours at Town Hall as being from 9:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

"That explains why Lou is late everyday," Mike Caira joked later in the evening, "We start at 8:30 a.m."

The Good Guy award itself was presented to Cimaglia at the close of the evening by the 2005 Wilmington Good Guys, Chuck and Matt DePasquale.

WCTV filmed the entire evening and will air highlights in the upcoming weeks.

Wilmington's Good Guy tradition originated in 1967 when a group of residents felt that Rocco DePasquale deserved special recognition for all that he did to benefit the community.

Rocco was asked to cater a dinner. It was only after slaving in the kitchen and serving out all the food that they finally let Rocco in on the secret that he had been catering a dinner held in his honor.

The next Good Guy was named in 1970 and the tradition has not missed a single year since.

No Swimming! Tom McHugh of Freeport Dr. in North Wilmington gave up at 4 a.m. The water just kept coming in. It's only about 6 inches deep in the finished basement, since the fire department pumped it out, but 6 inches might as well be three feet. The heat's off and the pool's closed, too. The pool is totally underwater, and caved in. They were swimming in it last weekend - now it's swimming in the back yard. (Stu Neilson photo) between is very flat, such that a small rise in water height equates to a huge increase in the width of the water.

"It just keeps happening," Tom Peck said. "I've had to spend over $200 again for sand to try to prevent my basement from flooding."

Lubbers Brook winds its way from Billerica through Wilmington and joins with Maple Meadow Brook near Woburn Street to form the beginning of the Ipswich River before exiting into Reading. Along the way, it crosses Main Street and Glen Road, and then runs behind the Town Hall and along Salem Street.

The land in question is part of a flood plane and is designated as such on the town maps. According to Dec, a 60-plus year resident of the property, the problem has grown worse over the years and she believes there are a number of contributing factors: 1. Added houses and building developments along Salem Street, 2. The brook itself has become clogged and doesn't flow as freely as it once did years ago, and 3. A storm drain was added along Salem Street, which empties directly onto her property.

A memo authored by Department of Public Works Superintendent Donald Onusseit, and dated July 17, 1998, acknowledges that the Town added a catch basin with an outlet pipe extending onto Dec's property. According to the document, "A review of available documents did not reveal an easement for this section of drain which extended onto your property."

Nearly eight years after the issuance of that memo, a Notice of Intent to address the issue of easement and extension of the outlet pipe was filed by the Town. A hearing on the matter was held on March 15th of this year and was continued to June 3, 2006.

"I just want the town to correct its past sins as they've promised to do," Dec said.

There is a plan to extend that outlet pipe further back away from Salem Street. Says Peck, "That might help slow it down a little, but that won't cure it," Peck said. "That brook really needs to be unclogged so it can flow."

His concern is that as more and more housing is built, the problem will become even worse.

"So far, my basement has stayed dry, but I have to fight the water each time it rains more than 2 inches," Peck said.

Local teams flooded with upcoming games

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The 'R' word is forever banned these days.

No it's not the R words you're thinking of ... nope not the Red Sox, not that puke from New York named Rodriguez, and nope it's not Run for those like myself who rather watch a Ben Affleck movie than do that (or maybe not).

So if you don't know by now, a little hint is this 'R' word is what kept Tewksbury Cross Country Coach Peter Molloy from washing his dishes on Monday night, since so much of the 'R' word banned him from doing so.

This 'R' word is also what kept all of the local high school teams from playing and practicing this past week leaving these pages completely blank forcing me to ramble on about some word everyone cringes to hear after seeing seven straight days of it.

Now this leaves us with just over two weeks left in the regular season. And after all of the postponements from this past week, the local teams, especially baseball and softball, are now scrambling for any arm they can get since they'll take on a professional schedule.

Both the baseball and softball teams need several more wins to get into the state tournament and now will be playing almost everyday to accomplish that goal. The softball team dropped its second straight game, playing North Andover on Friday and losing 7-1. The Wildcats made eight errors in the game as all eight runs were unearned.

"It was by far the worst game we played since I've been the coach here," said Bob Surran. "I think the kids looked out the window all day and figured we weren't playing and then all of a sudden they realized we were. They just weren't in the game at all. North Andover is pretty good and I think it still would have been a tough game had we been on."

Wilmington will travel to Triton on Thursday, and then host Rockport and Ipswich, Friday and Monday both at 7:00 pm at Aprile Field, before hosting North Reading on Tuesday afternoon at 3:45.

With a 6-5 overall record, Surran knows there's a lot of work for the team.

"There's four games for the taking that we should win to get us in," said Surran. "We also have four very tough games with Triton, North Reading, Tewksbury and Lowell. I think we can win six or seven of those games left but we need to play better (than we did against North Andover)."

Wilmington High's Katie Cole takes a cut at a pitch during a recent Cape Ann League softball game. The girls are back in action with home games this Friday and Monday night. (JoeBrownphotos.com)

The baseball team was defeated by Pentucket Regional last Thursday putting the Wildcats at 5-7 overall. The team will be very busy the rest of the way with seven games scheduled in the next 11 days and one left to be rescheduled. Wilmington was supposed to face Masconomet on Wednesday while this paper was being printed, and will follow that up with a home contest

Saturday morning against Newburyport at 10:00 am, and then road trips to Rockport, Georgetown and Amesbury on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday of next week.

Following that will come the annual Memorial Day tournament with the Wildcats facing Melrose on Saturday, May 27th at noon, and then either Reading or Ipswich on Sunday. The game left to be rescheduled is against the winless Manchester Essex squad.

The state's individual tennis tournament was postponed this past week and moved to this weekend. Senior Rob Garrett will represent the boys team.

The State Coaches Invitational Boys Track meet which was scheduled for this past Saturday was cancelled and the meet will not be made up. On Thursday afternoon at 3:15, the town will officially dedicate the new track in legendary coach Frank Kelley's honor.

On Saturday both the boys and girls track teams will participate in the Cape Ann League Meet scheduled to start at 9:00 am at Hamilton Wenham Regional High School.

McIsaac Brothers leading Rams on the diamond

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Steve and Rob McIsaac are the type of players that coaches dream about. Talented, hard working and respectful, are three words that come to mind when discussing the sophomore twins from Wilmington who both star for the Shawsheen Tech baseball team.

Steve, a first baseman and Rob, a pitcher and right fielder are two players who let their actions speak louder than words.

"The only two words that come out of their mouths are yes, coach," said Shawsheen coach Kevin Bloom. "They are great players to have on the team because they are not selfish at all. It's all about what can they do for the team."

Although Bloom was referring to the great team first attitudes the McIsaac's have, he may just as well have been referring to the twins ability to perform whatever task the coach has for them as well. If Bloom for example were to say, "Steve, go out there and get us the clutch RBI when we need it," or "Rob, get out there and shut down the opposing team," the answer once again would likely be "Yes, coach."

Steve was with the Wildcats last season, seeing a lot of playing time as a freshman, while Rob is a newcomer to the squad, having transferred to the Tech from Wilmington High this season.

If having one McIsaac on the team was good then having two has been great for the Rams. Steve is batting over .400 with a slugging percentage over .600 with a pair of home runs and a team leading 13 RBI's, while Rob is leading team in wins with a 5-1 record on the mound.

Bloom knew he had a talented arm coming in when Rob joined the team, but even he as been a little surprised with how quickly he has not only adapted to the varsity level, but become one of the better pitchers in the CAC. It is not only Rob's obvious skills that have impressed Bloom.

"The biggest surprise with Rob has been how intelligent a baseball player he is at such a young age," Bloom said. "He's like a coach on the field. As an example, against Whittier, we put on the pickoff play and he just looked at me to let me know he was putting it on and executed it perfectly. And at the plate he works the pitcher very well. He really understands the game."

Rob himself credits his AAU baseball experience with making him such a success this season.

"I am kind of surprised that I am doing so well. I played three years of AAU with 50 games per year which has helped me a lot," Rob said. "That was a great experience, but I did not think at all that things would go this good."

While Rob was a bit of an unknown coming into the season, Bloom knew what he would get from Steve, having seen him play last year. Even still, Steve has exceeded all expectations to this point.

"The biggest difference in Steve this year is his strength. The ball is just jumping off his bat," Bloom said. "Defensively he has also done a nice job at first base. He is replacing a league MVP over there in Jay Sholl and has done a great job."

Steve admits that his confidence has grown this season, with a year of experience under his belt.

"Last year as a freshman was kind of rough," Steve said. "But this year I definitely fit in more. I feel like more a part of the team. I played first base last year when Sholl was pitching so I got used to it. He was a great player, but I have done pretty well."

Steve has done more than just fit in, according to Bloom. Even as a sophomore, he has become one of the Rams leaders.

"He has taken on a leadership role for us," Bloom said. "Like I said, he doesn't say much, but he is a leader by example as is Rob."

While Steve was well known to his teammates going into the season, Rob was as much of an unknown to his teammates as he was to them. But he never felt at all like an outsider.

"I started off playing football in the fall so I knew a lot of the kids through that," Rob said. "I get along with everybody here. They are good teammates."

One thing that both players are happy about is having each other as a teammate. It is not a new experience for them, but it is new at the high school level.

"We played on a lot of teams together with AAU, but it is nice having him with me," Steve said. "When I am at first base and he is pitching we have a connection where I know if he is throwing over to me or something like that, so it's good to have him there."

As for Rob, part of his decision to transfer from Wilmington High to Shawsheen was based on both his and his family's desire to be on the same team and at the same school as his brother.

"My mother wanted us to be at the same school, and Steve said they were very good over at Shawsheen," Rob said. "Wilmington was very good as well, but I thought it would be good to transfer and play with Steve."

While the McIsaac's are certainly happy to be together, Bloom and the rest of the Rams are equally as happy to have them on the same team.

"They will both do whatever it takes for the team. Rob for example will pitch until his arm comes off," Bloom said. "They are both hard working and they have a lot of support from their family. Their teammates have responded well to them. They understand that they need to give their all if Rob and Steve are giving that kind of effort."

Wilmington Youth travel soccer round-up

The Wilmington GU10-5 girls team upped their season record to 3-2 with an impressive win against Reading this past Saturday afternoon.

The girls came out strong, displaying skilled footwork and well-timed passing. Repeated shots on goal by Kate Derrickson, Juliette McFadden, Samantha DePasquale and Alyssa Cieplik were all thwarted by a talented Reading keeper.

The continued offensive pressure combined with the strong defensive play by Erin Berube, Kathryn McFadden, Brianna Gendreau and Hannah left Wilmington keeper Brianna Anderson with only two shots on goal to defend. The first half ended without score.

The second half started out with more of the same, with all the action remaining in the Wilmington offensive zone. Brianna Anderson and Erin Berube rifled shots at the Reading goalie only to have them turned away again by her fast reactions. With fancy footwork and aggressive play, Juliette McFadden managed to steal the ball from a Reading defender and fire off a stinging shot on goal. But once again the team was denied a goal.

Finally, after rushing past the Reading defenders on a break-away, Samantha DePasquale streaked down the field and let out a fiery shot which was too good for the keeper to defend. After numerous shots on goal, Wilmington was finally on the board.

Not content with a single score, the Wilmington girls continued their offensive play with repeated passing and shots on goal. Their perseverance paid off when Kelly Hartsough fired a perfectly placed pass to Juliette McFadden who was finally rewarded for all her offensive efforts with a goal. Strong defensive pressure along with the relentless offensive drives gave keeper Kate Derrickson little to defend. The game ended with the final score 2-0.

Under 10A Girls

The Girls U10-A soccer team won big this Saturday morning at home by beating Westford who has been undefeated this Spring Season. It was an exciting game and Wilmington did not let up on their opponents for a single minute of play.

Wilmington showed right away that they came to play as the ball was moved into the Westford zone with some phenomenal passing and ball handling by defenders Caroline Robarge and Rachael Mara as they controlled and sent the ball to the forward line. Left forward Taylor Perella laid some beautiful cross passes and took several solid shots on net that shook the Westford keeper. Right forward Alexandra Bischoff then put the Wildcats on the scoreboard as she fired a shot off for a goal after an assist from center-mid Kaitlyn Curley.

Goalkeeper Erin Hurley did her job well as she successfully shutout the Westford team to end the half at 1-0.

The Wildcats were determined to keep the lead in the second half. Centermid Carli Brent hustled in midfield and won the ball time and time again. Defender Erin Hurley worked hard to protect Kaitlyn Cowden in goal. Forwards Christa Brent and Rachel McLaren set up many scoring opportunities for the Wildcats and kept the Westford keeper on her toes.

Goalkeeper Kaitlyn Cowden had an incredible game in net as she had many diving saves and powerhouse kicks upfield. Wilmington's defense worked tirelessly to hold back the Westford offense and rob them of any scoring opportunities.

The final score was 1-0 and Wilmington added another win to their record making it 2-2-1. Congratulations to the girls for a job well done. Keep up the good work.

Under 11A Girls

Saturday morning at Shawsheen Field, the weather was great and the action was even better. The Wilmington Wildcats Under 11A girls soccer team came into this game looking to extend their unbeaten streak to five games. The team from Lincoln came in looking for their first win. As the game started it was clear that Lincoln was more determined to go for the win.

The Wildcats were caught flat footed and their offense was sputtering. Lincoln scored first early in the first half on a corner kick from the left side of the Wildcat keeper, Kim Woods. Lincoln was now playing with the lead and immediately dropped a midfielder back into the defensive zone to try hold on to that lead.

The first line of Wilmington's strikers was made up of Kelsey Mangan, Taylor O'Byrne and Michelle Woods. They came together with the help of their midfielders, Alliy Gemellaro, Lauren McKenna and Jackie Parece, near the end of the first half and applied pressure in the Lincoln end. O'Byrne made a rush to the net and scored to tie up the game.

In the second half McKenna replaced Kim Woods in net and Wilmington reconfigured their lines to take back control of the middle of the field and get their offense rolling. O'Byrne was now paired up with Holly Niemiec in the striker spot and Colleen Brothers, Gianna Tummino and Kim Woods were set up in midfielders spots.

At around the ten minute mark, O'Byrne sent a nice pass across the front of the net to Niemiec who sent the ball in to give Wilmington the lead. The Wilmington defense, Emma Barrasso and Jane Farrell, now knowing they had the lead stopped all the chances that Lincoln got to score.

Again control of the midfield was the turning point and on Wilmington's third goal Alliy Gemellaro fought for the ball on the left side got control and sent it up to O'Byrne who blasted it past the Lincoln keeper putting Wilmington up 3-1. What started out as a nail biter for Wilmington ended in a much deserved win.

Under 14-5 Girls

After a tough loss at Billerica last week the Wilmington GU14-5 soccer team were eager to get back on the winning track. The overmatched Burlington team was just what the doctor ordered. On Shawsheen Field last Saturday at high noon the Wilmington girls righted their ship.

Wilmington dominated the first half with the ball being in the Burlington end most of the game. Lauren Cole and Kelly Duffy combined with some great passing to send Kristina Tummino in on goal from the left side for some blistering shots. Meanwhile on the right side Samantha Reed and Meghan Souza were making some nice rushes and passes of their own. Meghan sent one shot just over the cross bar. Burlington was reeling as Wilmington kept the pressure on.

Kaitlyn McGuire got some work at stopper with Chelsey Westerberg in net and she did a super job carrying the ball and looking for the open player. Samantha Reed did a great job sending some booming crosses to the outside forwards.

Jenny Garrard sent a nice pass out of the middle to Heather Kealos at right forward and Heather put a nice hard, low shot into the net to get Wilmington on the board. Not long after Kelly Duffy, getting a well deserved break from keeper, sent a beautiful shot into the far corner of the goal from outside the eighteen. With Chelsey Westerberg minding the twine for Wilmington, Burlington was kept scoreless in the first half.

The scoring barrage was unleashed in the second half. Kelly Duffy sent a nice ball up to Heather Kealos and Heather broke in all alone and took a beautiful shot into the right corner of the goal for her second goal of the game. Next up, Kristina Tummino led a pass to Alyssa Fiorentino and Alyssa tucked a shot into the short side. Stopper Chelsey Westerberg massed up to left midfielder Courtney See who passed to right forward Lauren Cole and Lauren buried a goal of her own.

With Wilmington in a commanding lead the defensive players got a chance to play forward.

Kristen Keller led Haley Robarge who passed to Elizabeth Jaeschke who boomed a nice shot in for her first goal of the season. It was fun to see defenders Lori Fletcher and Kelly Flaherty shooting on goal and crashing the net looking for loose balls. They all worked very hard at their new positions.

Fiona Gately, once again, ran all over the field as center midfielder working hard for all the balls. Courtney See, who is next to scoring goals, potted the last goal of the game for Wilmington. Second half keeper Meghan Souza did a great job guarding the twine.

Tigers barely get by Astros

Senior Division:

Tigers 9 vs. Astros 8:
Outstanding pitching once again propelled the Tigers to victory over the Astros, May 11, 2006 at Conlon Field.

Melissa Brown smacked a home run in this nail-biter, with a triple by Kelsey Gill and a key late inning hit by Gabrelle Greenwood. Defensively, Nicole Fleming, Taylor Marshall and Sarah D'Agostino as usual, did well.

The Frazier Sheet Metal Astros dropped a very close game against the tenacious Tigers. Sara Mondello made her Senior League pitching debut, throwing for three innings and did a fine job keeping the Tigers within reach. Allie Frazier pitched four innings contributing with eight strikeouts.

Sarah-Ann Willette did an exceptional job from behind the plate in spite of the very muddy conditions.

In the field, Megan Robertson had a nice fielding play from third to Amanda Morsicato at second - making a key out. Kerri Capuano's throw in from left field on a well hit ball was on the mark allowing Sarah-Ann a great tag out at the plate. Offensively, Megan Robertson's home run in the seventh inning closed the gap in the score and solid hitting by Lindsay Phenix, Allie Frazier and Sarah-Ann Willette kept the Tigers on their toes to the very end. Both team played an excellent game!

Wm. Gedick and Sons Twins 11 vs. Skybox Pirates 11:

Mother nature let the rain stop on Thursday just long enough to let the Twins and Pirates get a short game in that ended in a tie.

The Twins attack was led by Sam Killion, who dropped 2 bombs while Nicole Harrison, Kayla Benvenuto and Stacey Matrangola also helped pace the Twins attack. Allison Noyes anchored the Twin defense with a fine effort behind the plate.

Defensive standouts for the Pirates included Abby Pinard, Christina Lusardi, Jen Hogan and the pitching of Meghan Hamilton.

Sara McLaughlin and Brooke Mallahan each had an out after catching the runners in a pickle going home.

Offensive standout for the Pirates were Brook Mallahan, Kellie Dwyer (each with hits), Meghan Hamilton with two hits and Lauren Lusardi with one of the key RBI's to tie the game.

Intermediate Division:

Mets 13 vs. Diamondbacks 11:
Tiffany Marsh (3 innings, 8 strikeouts), Abby Donoghue (2 innings, 2 strikeouts) and Courtney Downing (2 innings, 2 strikeouts) secured the Mets pitching. Offensive Met standouts were Nicole Howe (2 for 3 with a double), Nicole Doyle (single with a run scored) and Emma Doherty (single with a run scored). Hayley Feingold was the defensive standout at catcher.

Mets 16 vs. Mariners 4:

The Mariners faced a tough Mets team Sunday at Memorial Field as they once again fought a tough battle, staying in the game until the end.

Kelli Sugrue and Adriana Brown provided solid pitching for the Mariners, fueled by a Kelli Sugrue triple with two hits for the game, along with Jessica Kenney and Rachel Gillis each providing two of their own hits to the Mariners cause.

The Mariner defense was driven by a "YAZ" type performance by Rebecca Abele in left field and solid infield by Renee Lerette, Adriana Brown, and Emily Hartigan.

The Mets bats came alive with Abby Donoghue (4 hits, 3 RBI's and 4 runs scored), Maggie Middleton (4 hits, 3 RBI's and 4 runs scored) and Tiffany Marsh (3 hits, 4 RBI's and 3 runs scored).

Mets pitching was secured by Abby Donoghue with 4 innings and 4 strikeouts, and Tiffany Marsh with 2 innings and 6 strikeouts. Jamie McAllister (third base), Natalie Bourne (second base), and Emily Coughlin in left field were the defensive standouts for the Mets.

Mets 16 vs. Diamondbacks 8:
Tiffany Marsh (3 innings, 7 strikeouts), and Courtney Downing (4 innings, 5 strikeouts) secured the Mets pitching.

Offensive Met standouts were Tiffany Marsh and Maggie Middleton as well as Lauren Teixiera and Marrissa Harrington who both had multiple hits. Defensive standouts for the Mets were Alicia Miller and Lauren Teixiera.

Amanda McGaffigan pitched in for the Diamondbacks and did a great job while also assisting in some outs at first base along with Kim Brekalis. Allison Luppi hit a solo homerun and Allison Castiglione had two RBI's. Jennifer Iannacci made a nice stop and made an unassisted putout at third base. Ashley Berquist snagged a hard line drive on the pitchers mound. Each Diamondback player gave their all and it was an exciting game to watch!

Devil Rays 18 vs. Marlins 14:

The Marlins pulled ahead early in the game with hits from Amanda Priest, Rachel Taylor, and Kylie Gamby. Jessica Arsenault, Stephanie Hart, and Kaylyn Michaud made great defensive plays at first and second to stop the Devil Rays from taking bases. Unfortunately the Marlins lost their steam in the fifth inning and the Devil Rays had a great come from behind win.

Royals 10 vs. Mariners 9:

The Royals edged the Mariners by the slimmest of margins, 10-9, at Memorial Field. Both teams held late inning rallies scoring 6 runs each in their last at bats to conclude an exciting ball game as time expired. Alyssa St. Cyr and Chrissy Duggan both ripped the ball cleanly to knock in important runs for the Royals while Jaclyn Carroll smashed two doubles and a single to pace the winners.

Rachel Pendleton continues to pitch well for the Royals and added a stinging single to left field and a strong slide into third later on. Jamie Ricciardi impressed the crowd with a strike out of the side with just ten pitches in the fifth for the "Elks" sponsored Royals.

The Mariners sponsored by Kwik Auto Body Supplies continue to make vast improvements as a team and had their best showing of the season losing a "barn burner" at Memorial Field to a tough Royals team. Adriana Brown pitched 3 solid innings for the Mariners allowing only four runs.

The Mariners bats were red hot with back-to-back triples by Kelli Sugrue and Adriana Brown. Additional offensive contributors were Kaleen Cutone, Meghan Walsh, Meaghan Connolly, and Kayla Kane. Mariner defensive prowess was displayed by Kaitlyn Gordon, Emily Hartigan, Cindy Dunn, and Renee LeRette.

10U Junior Division:

McKesson Corp. Braves 19,

Kwik Auto Reds 14:

Loren Sullivan's bat was hot for the Braves as she went 3-for-3 with three RBI's. Danielle Farrell knocked in three runs and went 3-for-4. Emily Dufield made a great play in right field and threw a runner out at first. Jessica Silva was solid behind the plate.

Shanell Nardone and Mariah Wentzell split the pitching duties with a combined 13 strikeouts. It was an offensive display by both the Reds and the Braves with the Reds losing 19-14. The Reds sponsored by Kwik Auto Body Supplies, had the red hot bats with multiple hits coming from Amanda Brown, Ashley Kelly, Emily Knoops, Lisa Petrowski, and Stacey Crowe.

The defense was solid with great plays by Alexandra Kelly, Erin Morrissey, Lauren Strange, and Margaret Walsh. The Reds pitching was shared by Amanda Brown, Ashley Kelly, Alexandra Kelly and Lisa Petrowski. The Reds continue to improve with every game played.

White Sox 18 vs. Cubs 7:

Aurora Salon White Sox had an impressive team performance in their 18-7 win over the Cubs. Super Defensive skills were displayed by Amanda Woods, Lacey Hartigan, and Christina Keefe. Offensively, White Sox bats were led by hits by Amanda Schiavone, Jaime Fowler, and a big hit from Valerie Intravaia. Securing the pitching for the White Sox were Jessica Vitale and Bridget Casey.

Dance Expressions Giants 11

vs. Red Sox 10:

It was a hard fought game between the 10U Dance Expressions Giants and the Red Sox as the Giants eked out a last winning win. Giants standouts were Shannon McLaughlin and Jocelyn Joyce.

Offensive standouts for the Giants were Jill Paneuff and Chelsea Grant. Giants defense was led by Haley Acconcia and Taylor Arsenault.

McKesson Corp. Braves 9,

Giants 8:

The Braves had a dramatic come from behind win in this unbelievable duel against the Giants (down 8 to 1 in the last inning). Jessica Guida led the way with a base clearing double to tie the game. Shanell Nardone had a two out single to brig her in for the win.

Mariah Wentzell pitched four strong innings and added a home run. Shannon Smith and Cassie Tumenas kept the Giants from scoring with some great defensive plays late in the game.

8U Junior Division:

Merrimack Financial Services

Riptide vs. Racers:

The Riptide team played a superb game against the Racers last Monday. Offensively, Jade Sabbag, Teagan Trant, Irene Houde, Rachel Kelly, Kirsten Dick and Samantha Mercurio led the way. Providing outstanding defensive play for the Riptide was Serena Dallaire, Christina Noyes, and Adrianna Favreau who provided two back-to-back key outs a hold off the Racers from scoring and to end the inning.

Drinkwater and Gustin help UML at NCAA Championship Meet

SMITHFIELD, RI (May 6, 2006) - Senior Nate Potter (Wilmington, RI) won the hammer throw and provisionally qualified for the NCAA Championship to lead the UMass Lowell men's track and field team at the Northeast-10 Conference Championship Saturday at Bryant University.

Senior Patrick Morasse (Lowell, MA) won the 800 meters while freshman Andrew Grange (Methuen, MA) captured the 400 meter dash.

UML compiled 94 points to finish behind Southern Connecticut (262.50) and Stonehill (102.50). Bryant placed fourth with 87 points and was followed by Bentley (52), Saint Rose (15), Pace (3) and Assumption (3).

Potter won the hammer throw with a distance of 177 feet, 5.0 inches and met the NCAA provisional standard for the first time in his career. His throw bested second-place Frank Gambardella of Southern Connecticut (168'4.0") by just over nine feet.

Morasse won the 800 meters with a time of 1:54.11 and led four teammates in the top seven places. Sophomore Joey DeWitt (Ellsworth, ME) took fourth in 1:56.08 while freshman Patrick Molloy (Methuen, MA) placed fifth in 1:57.38. Senior Erick Colon (Methuen, MA) placed sixth in 1:57.85 while junior Jason Gustin (Wilmington, MA) took seventh in 1:58.31. Grange won the 400 meter dash in 47.96 seconds and was one of two River Hawks who scored in the event. Senior John Drinkwater (Tewksbury, MA) placed sixth in 49.36.

UML's 4X100 relay team took second in 42.39, behind Southern Connecticut, which placed first in 42.00. Leading UML was sophomore Bryan Koenig (Reading, MA), senior Lawrence Aidoo (Providence, RI), junior Matt Pagos (Chicopee, MA) and senior Wally Sacco (Stoneham, MA).

Aidoo also finished second in the 200 meter dash in 21.84 seconds and took fifth in the 100 meter dash in 11.07. Junior Clint Cooper (Raynham, MA) placed fourth in the 200 in 21.95 seconds.

Sacco endured a busy day as he also took fourth in the long jump with a distance of 21' 11.0" and seventh in the triple jump (41' 0.0").

Graduate student James Lamoreaux (Springfield, MA) led UML's distance contingent as he took second in the 10,000 meters in 34:13.29.

Along with Potter, sophomore Rocky LeFort (Nashua, NH) also highlighted the throws as he placed third in the shot put with a distance of 45' 0.25".

In the 4X400 meter relay, the River Hawks took third in 3:24.39. Senior Erick Colon (Methuen, MA) joined freshmen Ruben Sanca (Boston, MA) and Rich Cogan (North Attleboro, MA) along with sophomore Jeb Destito (Gloucester, MA).

Twins toss two straight shut outs

Major League Baseball
Twins 5, Tigers 0

The Twins (sponsored by Extra Innings) defeated the Tigers (sponsored by Michael J. Newhouse and Associates) by a score of 5-0. Steven Reynolds hit his first homer to give the Twins the only run they needed. Mark Connolly had a double that brought home one run and he scored two runs. Also getting hits for the Twins were Nathan Grimley and Adam Burke.

Getting hits for the Tigers were Tyler Vibert, Jesse Patterson, and Eddie Giannakas. Twins pitchers Dan Pothier and Mark Connolly each pitched three scoreless innings with eight strikeouts each.

Twins 9, Orioles 0

Using three different pitchers, the Twins were able to shut out the Orioles who are sponsored by Shea Concrete. The game was close until the third inning when the Twins (sponsored by Extra Innings) were able to score six runs. The final score was 9-0.

Pitching for the Twins were Steven Reynolds, Nate Grimley, and James Wilkinson. Hitters for the Twins with two each were Mike Daley and Sam Silva.

Also getting hits were Chris Newton, Dan Pothier, and Mark Connolly. Getting hits for the Orioles were Dan Collins, Andrew Camilleri, and Brian Callahan.

Yankees 2, White Sox 1

It was a classic pitching duel in the majors the other night when two of top pitchers in the league, Vin Scifo of the Yankees and John Keough of the White Sox hooked up at Rotary Park. The Yankees took a 1-0 lead in the 1st inning when Scifo helped his own cause with a booming triple to right center and then scored on a wild pitch.

The Yankees scratched another run across in the third when Cam Owens walked, advanced to second then third on a passed ball and wild pitch, then scored on a big two out single to right by Zack Shepard.

The White Sox cut the lead to 2-1 in the top of the fifth when Cam Collins reached on a bunt single, stole second, went to third on a passed ball then scored on a wild pitch. That's as close as the Pale Hose would come though as the Yanks held on for the 2-1 win.

Pitching was the story here though, as Scifo wound up striking out 15 while giving up just two hits.

Other than the bunt hit, E.J. Boggia whacked a double for the other safety. Vinny also only walked two, while striking out the side in each of the first four innings.

On the other side John Keough of the White Sox did all he could to try and match that performance and he nearly pulled it off. John fanned 11 in all while giving up just 4 hits and walking only two.

Yankees 11, Orioles 1

When the Yankees and Orioles squared off against each other in major league action it was a case of the Orioles giving up too much too soon as the Yankees came out and scored five runs in the 1st inning and the O's never recovered as the Yanks rolled to an 11-1 victory.

The Yankees spread the wealth around as everybody in their lineup reached base at least once and ten different players scored runs.

Pat Magliano, Mike Ciampa, Mike Brent, and Stevie Ciampa all pitched well in their stints for the Yanks. Cam Owens led the hit parade with a pair of safeties. Highlights for the Orioles were two hits (a triple and single) by Dan Creedon, and base hits by Jack Mulrenan, Dan Collins, and Brian Callahan.

Red Sox 7, White Sox 3

The season started in rain and sleet, but both teams were glad to be playing baseball. The Red Sox came out of the dugout swinging hot bats on this cold night, as the first five batters reached base, and scored, before John Keough, the White Sox pitcher could settle down.

Hits by Tommy See, Justin Ferreira, Killian Smith, and Tyler Warner gave the Red Sox a five run lead before the White Sox came to bat.

However, Keough did settle down allowing only one other hit to Killian Smith, while striking out 12 in five innings.

The White Sox couldn't overcome the Red Sox' lead, as Brendon McDonough, Ferreira, and Warner held the White Sox to three runs. Leading the White Sox offense was Bryan Feindel (two hits) Ryan Bradley, Wayne Knoop, E.J. Boggia, Pat Barry, and Mike Biondo.

Yankees 2, White Sox 1

John Keough of the White Sox and Vinny Scifo of the Yankees locked up in a classic pitchers duel. Scifo struck out 15, walked one, and only allowed two hits (one to Wayne Knoop and one to Cam Collins). Keough struck out 11, walked one, and only allowed hits to Scifo, Zach Sheppard, and Cam Owens.

A's 9, Indians 8

On Sunday afternoon, in a very entertaining game, the A's, sponsored by the Sons of Italy, defeated the Indians, sponsored by Textron, by a score of 9-8.

The A's opened the scoring in the top of the second inning with two runs, only to be matched in the bottom by the Indians. Then both teams rallied for five runs in the third.

The game was decided in the 8th when the A's scored two and the Indians could only manage one. Leading the hit parade for the Indians were J.T. Lynch (three hits), Jake Rogers and Rob Fisher (two hits each).

For the A's, Dan Pendenza (two hits including his second homerun), Dan Keane (two hits) and Phil Lentini (game winning hit) led the way. Pitching for the Indians were Kyle Albanese and Alex Terk. For the A's, Phil Lentini, Jake MacIssac and Tim McCarthy did the pitching.

A League

Brewers Top Marlins

The Sign Fabricators Brewers beat the J. A. Miara Transportation-sponsored Marlins, 14-3, in a Single A game at Glen Road field. Evan Raffi led the Brewers offense with a three-run triple and also pitched two scoreless innings. Andrew Lobao added two hits for the Brewers, while Lucas Garrity, Ryan Flood, Shawn Reordan and Stephen Agnatovech each had a hit.

Nick Raffi, Shawn Reordan and Nick Silva also pitched for the Brewers, while Matt Parent and Joey Hydon contributed to the win as well.

Christopher Keely and Mitchell Goulet each had doubles to lead the Marlins offense while Zach Abbot, Brian Corrigan and Fox Maxwell had a hit each. Jacob Aoki, Zack Abbot, Ryan Broderick, Liam

Bennett and Brian Neal shared the pitching duties, and Kevin Goncalves made a fine play in the field. Ryan Horgan and Michael Daley also contributed to the Marlin's effort.

Major League Softball

Pirates 26, Phillies 8

The Charles River Laboratories Pirates took advantage of control problems by the opposing pitchers and received a solid pitching performance of their own from Kelly Wilcox to cruise to a 26-8 victory over the Eastgate Liquors Phillies.

After some first inning troubles, Wilcox settled down and struck out four while walking only two. Once she got past that opening inning, Wilcox only allowed three runs the rest of the way. Katie Kurowski came on in the 6th inning to close things down by striking out two Phillies. Taylor Howlett and Kristen Ingala each scored four runs for the Pirates.

Taylor Cushing and Kelly Griffin drove in three runs a piece. Cushing was robbed of extra bases in the third inning when her rising liner to left was grabbed by Phillie leftfielder Danielle Parisi. Cushing drove another hard shot in the 6th and this time shortstop Sarah Luz was there for the catch. Ingala and Ashley Walsh had hits in the game.

Courtney Collins and Nancy Hurley both reached base six times, with each walking five times and reaching on a Phillie error.

For the Phillies, Robin Hollenbeck, Courtney Cavanaugh, and Megan Priem had two hits each. Jordan Malatesta had a RBI-double in the 5th inning. Stephanie Heatley-Quinlan was on the bench and joined the growing cheering section of injured Phillies in support of their teammates.

Reds 22, Padres 19

In Major League Softball action the Captive Image sponsored Reds took on the Padres, sponsored by Rocco's restaurant. Padres pitcher Ashley White held the Reds scoreless in the first inning, while striking out two batters.

The Padres plated three runs in the bottom of the first with heads up baserunning by Ashley Michals, Carly Gillis and Kate MacDougall. Good Defensive plays by Lisamarie DiOrio, Cali Pepper and good pitching by Rachel Grabar got the Reds out of a jam.

The Reds got two runs back in the top of the second with some great baserunning and timely hitting by Kelly Gormley, Alexandra Derrain, and Megan Howland. The Padres came back with two runs of their own on heads up play by Marianna Tisone and Sabrina Mirabella.

The Reds came storming back and scored a handful of runs.

Runs were scored by Kelly Cassidy, Gabriella Polcari, and Sara Pudvelis.

The Padres came roaring back with hits by Jackie Parece, Delaney Gillis, Kelley Valetta and Lauren Sullivan. It was a back and forth game with the Reds leading by five runs in the last inning. In the last inning, Emily Schuh was robbed on a hard line drive by Kristin Esdale for the first out of the inning.

With two outs, the Padres started to rally. Maggie Brown drove in two runs to cut the lead to three but Reds closer Stefanie Tran shut down the Padres to end the game with the tying run at the plate.

Pirates Edge Mariners

The Charles River Laboratories Pirates squeaked by the Mariners, who are sponsored by The Wilmington Sons of Italy, to win their third straight game. Courtney Collins made her pitching debut and did a great job for two innings. The Mariners offense scored in

Shawsheen Tech Sports Round-Up

Baseball team bounces back after tough defeat

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech baseball team has shown the ability to bounce back from tough losses this season on several occasions. Last week however, may have been the best example yet of the Rams resiliency, as after dropping a tough 5-4 decision to arch rival Tyngsboro on Thursday, the Rams came back the very next day to rout another Commonwealth Athletic Conference rival Lynn Tech by a score of 9-0 on Friday.

"It was nice to bounce back like that. It was nice just to get the game in," Shawsheen coach Kevin Bloom said in reference to the horrible weather that has forced the postponement of many games.

Sophomore Rob McIsaac of Wilmington completely shut down the Tigers, allowing only two hits while striking out seven batters in the complete game victory.

"Rob shut them down in the first inning 1-2-3 with two strikeouts and that kind of set the tone for us," Bloom said. "We got one run in the first and then five in the second and he just went from there."

Sophomore Anthony Miano of Tewksbury continued his fine week against the Tigers. After homering the day before in the loss to Tyngsboro he came back and belted another one out of the park in this one.

"What's very impressive about Anthony this year is that he is a pure hitter," Bloom said. "He has really developed, and he is thinking things through at the plate. He doesn't give up many swings."

Sixteen players played in the game for the Rams. It's never easy to suffer a loss to your arch rival so the loss to Tyngsboro definitely hurt, especially with the Rams having several chances to tie the game, but Bloom was happy to see improvement from his team against one of the better teams in the CAC. The last time the Rams faced Tyngsboro they fell by a score of 14-3.

"The difference this time was that our guys came away with a sense that Tyngsboro had to play very well to come out on the winning end," Bloom said. "Any time you lose it is tough, but the daily progress we are looking for is definitely what we saw in this one."

Miano, who had such a fine week at the plate, moved his talents to the mound in this one. Despite taking the loss, he pitched very well, recording five strikeouts while going the distance for the Rams.

The 1-1 week leaves the Rams with an 8-5 overall record, while they are 4-5 in the CAC. They need two more wins to qualify for the state tournament.

The Rams have a busy week ahead due to all the rainouts and rescheduling. They travel to Minuteman Regional on Thursday and then host four straight games, with Lowell Catholic on Friday, Bishop Fenwick on Monday, Whittier on Tuesday and finally Greater Lowell next Thursday coming to the Tech.

Softball

The Shawsheen softball team also squared off against Lynn Tech and Tyngsboro last week, and they came away with a pair of victories. The Lady Rams routed Lynn Tech on Thursday afternoon by a score of 22-0 in a game called after five innings due to the mercy rule, and came back the next day to nip Tyngsboro by a score of 3-2 in eight innings.

"They were two different wins entirely, but we will take them both," said Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley.

The win over Tyngsboro was especially impressive, as it was the Rams second victory over the Tigers in a span of four days, having downed them by a score of 6-4 on Monday. Buckley was impressed with her team's ability to beat such a quality opponent in such a short time.

"You don't really want to play them twice that quickly, but we hit well and did not make too many errors," Buckley said. "That was a huge win for a young team like we are."

The eighth inning was as intense as it gets, with Tyngsboro having the potential lead run on third base with one out, but Shawsheen pitcher Kelli-Jo Deardorff got one batter to pop up and saw the next batter foul off a bunt attempt with two strikes.

The Lady Rams then scored the winning run when Deardorff came in from third to score on a passed ball in the bottom of the eighth with Melanie Strazzere at the plate. Strazzere was 1-for-3 in the game with a triple, flowing up a 2-for-2 three RBI performance against Lynn Tech the day before.

"It's sometimes hard for her to get a good pitch to hit because teams are so careful with her," Buckley said. "But I think that helped us in the eighth inning because I think they were being so careful with her the ball got away. If Melanie gets a hold of one it goes a long way."

Against Lynn Tech, Shawsheen got four RBIs from Deardorff to go along with Strazzere's big day, and got great pitching performances from both Deardorff and Kim Rizzari. Deardorff did not allow a hit over three innings of work while striking out six, and Rizzari allowed one hit in two innings and also struck out six batters.

With the two wins the Lady Rams improved to 10-3 (8-2 CAC) on the season and clinched a spot in the state tournament. Shawsheen's work this season is not done, but Buckley is glad to have the tournament berth secured.

"It is nice to put this on the back burner now, but now we have to continue to win games so we end up at the top of the seedings instead of the bottom," Buckley said. "We would also like to take a shot at the top of the league and get into the Voke tournament."

The Lady Rams will host Greater Lowell on Thursday before traveling to Whittier on Friday and hosting Mount Alvernia in a makeup game on Sunday. They will follow that up with regularly scheduled games at home against Minuteman on Monday and Savio Prep on Wednesday.

Lacrosse

The Shawsheen lacrosse team has also been a victim of the foul weather, having three games canceled already this season. The weather only allowed them to play one game this week, but they certainly made the most of the one game they did play, ending a three game losing streak with a 9-4 home win over Blackstone Valley on Thursday. The win improved the Rams record to 5-4 on the season.

"It was about time," Shawsheen coach Chuck Baker laughed. "The truth is we have been playing pretty good ball especially on defense. We haven't allowed 10 goals in a game to anybody except Northeast, but it was a matter of getting the offense going which we were able to do in this one."

Senior attack Dan Roy led the way for the Rams, scoring three goals and adding an assist.

"Dan has the same knack as he does in hockey of being able to pick spots in the net to shoot," Baker said. "He looks before he shoots and he is a huge asset for us. He is another one of our kids who had never picked up a lacrosse stick until he came to Shawsheen and he has turned out to be great for us."

Freshman Shawn Donovan of Tewksbury also had a big day, with a goal and three assists. Baker has described Donovan as one of the Rams best playmaker and he lived up to that reputation against Blackstone.

"He is just like Danny (Roy) in that they both find themselves in open areas," Baker said. "He just sees the field so well."

Another Tewksbury freshman Ryan Smith bounced back very nicely from the recent losing streak with 11 saves to earn the victory. He also had plenty of help in front of him with the Rams stellar defense.

"Ryan wasn't really tested a lot, but he made the saves he needed to," Baker said. "He was able to get some confidence back with was important for him. He takes the losses pretty hard, but that is actually nice to see a freshman who cares that much about winning and losing."

The Rams schedule has seen some changes. Due to a scheduling conflict they will play a road game against Tri-County on Thursday in a game originally scheduled to be played at the Tech, and will follow that up with a makeup game against the same team on Friday at home. On Monday they will travel to Assabet Regional and on Wednesday they will host Lynn Tech.

It is likely that makeup games will be added on Tuesday and Thursday of next week, but the schedule had not been finalized as of press time.

Hospitals: Part of the problem or part of the solution in the battle against substance abuse

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

During the research on this story, several people, serving on the front lines in the battle against substance abuse, have pointed to the hospitals as a part of the problem. According to their opinion, the medical community, and especially the emergency room doctors, have been lax in how they prescribe stance abuse. There are many hospital staff who do community work."

Strunk added that 70 percent of the employees at Winchester live in the communities covered by Middlesex East. She also noted that the hospital services many of the communities, including Winchester, Woburn, Stoneham, and Wilmington.

fully trained to spot frauds. The doctors administer a series of tests and ask specific questions before prescribing pain relieving medication.

"We don't write refills as a standard," Sbardella said. We try to make sure that each patient has a follow-up examination. We try to prescribe the least amount of dosage we can."

opiate based pain-killers such as OxyContin, Percoset and Vicodin. The question has been asked whether the doctors are asking the right questions when a person comes in for a prescription and especially for a refill.

Hallmark Health Care Systems (Melrose-Wakefield Hospital) and Winchester Hospital responded to questions on the issue. Lahey Clinic in Burlington and Lowell General Hospital did not return calls for a comment.

Spokespeople for both Hallmark and Winchester related how strict their protocols are for dispensing drugs and for providing refills. They also stated a wish to be a part of the solution and would work closely with any community or organization that seeks their help.

Dr. Steven Sbardella Chairperson of Emergency Medicine for Hallmark Health said, "We would be more than willing to work with any community or organization that has a plan (to fight substance abuse)."

He suggested that the organizers of these groups should contact Dr. Michael Summerer, the chief medical officer at Hallmark Health. It would be Dr. Summerer who would suggest someone to work with the group.

Angela Strunk, manager of Corporate Communications and Public Affairs at Winchester Hospital said, "We are interested in who, in the surrounding communities, are involved in preventing substance abuse. There are many hospital staff who do community work."

Both Dr. Sbardella and Strunk emphasized that it is not a case of a person just walking into the emergency room and asking for a prescription for pain killers. In fact both hospitals only prescribe enough of the opiate based drugs for a three or four day period and then require that the patient contact their primary care physician.

"We don't prescribe OxyContin any more," Sbardella said. "Several months ago the federal government realized the problems with the drug. The Emergency Room does stopped prescribing it."

He added, "Prescriptions are based on the injury and the type of symptoms we see."

If a person came into the Emergency Room, with a fracture or a broken bone, than it would be obvious, to the examining physician, that a pain management regimen would be necessary. However, especially with adolescents the prescription would only be for a short period and no refills would be authorized.

Strunk and Sbardella both said that the emergency room doctors at both hospitals are Both hospitals adhere strictly to regulations that call for adolescents under the age of 17 to have a parent or guardian present when medications are prescribed. The doctors and emergency room personnel are trained to give the adult the instructions and cautions on the medications use.

Sbardella admitted that there is a way for some people to get around the system. Although he has no hard evidence, Sbardella said he has heard of people who "hospital shop" going from one emergency room to another in search of pain killing drug prescriptions.

"These people learn the right words to use," Sbardella said. "Almost all of the emergency room physicians in the area learn to deal with this."

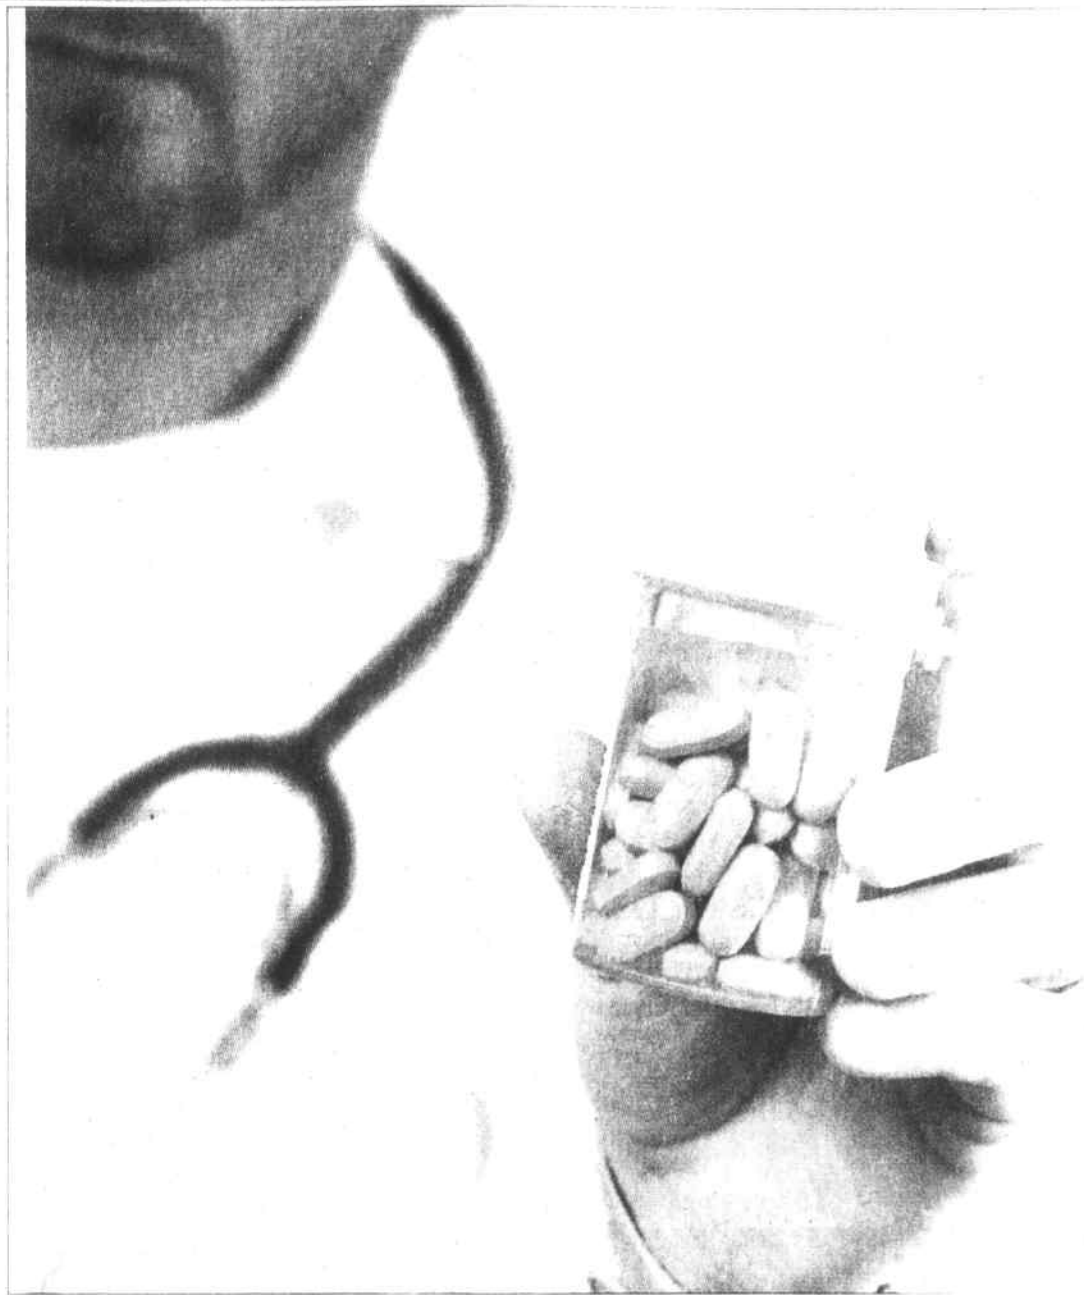

"There are certain things we look for; certain tests we can perform to see if a person is telling the truth."

He added, "We worry about the population that does hospital shop and obtain prescriptions for legal medication."

He noted that often times that medication is then sold on the street. It has been estimated that the price for OxyContin can be as high as $40 per-dose.

Unfortunately, due to the high incidence of people getting hooked on the drug through abusing it, the soon turn to non-regulated heroin. The illegal drug is now 85 percent pure on the street and sells for only $5 a bag.

It is the use of this form of the opiate based drugs which is resulting in a large number of overdose cases in the Middlesex East area. Several of these cases have resulted in fatalities among young people in the 19-34 age group.

Sbardella also noted that hospitals do not have a way to share patient information between the various emergency rooms. Because of patient privacy regulations it is difficult to know which patients are hospital shopping.

He suggested that pharmacists could be a large help toward this end. If regulations allow them too, a pharmacist could call back a doctor if it is discovered that a patient is trying to refill a prescription that has recently been refilled at another location of the large chain drug stores.

Both Sbardella and Strunk agree with the assessment that parents and guardians need to be more aware of the medications their children are taking and how often they are taking it.

Toward this end, many communities in the Middlesex East area have been running Citizen Police Academies on Drug Awareness. The 12 week program was designed by Burlington resident Marilyn Belmonte, who has conducted it in Burlington, Reading, North Reading, Wakefield and Wilmington among other places.

It has proved to be an invaluable tool in those communities and many such as Wakefield will be offering it again in the fall.

Since this series of articles has started it has also been learned that North Reading has started an active program to fight substance abuse in that community.

As to how pervasive the problem is, the study done in Reading showed that in 2004, 57 percent of the population between 21 and 39 in the Sixth Congressional District sought admission to substance abuse treatment centers. Of these, 60 percent were male and 40 percent were female and 70 percent were white non-Latino, a total of 10 percent were black, Asian or Latino heritage.

The communities that are now working on the problem have found that any solution must combine cooperation between the school department and the community at large.

"POSEIDON" A TYPICAL SUMMER FLICK

IN THIS PHOTO PROVIDED BY WARNER BROS. PICTURES, a luxury ocean liner capsize from a colossal tidal wave, leaving its survivors to fend for themselves as they find a way out in "Poseidon."

"POSEIDON"
GRADE: **

Poseidon is a 'leave your brain at the door and go along for the ride' summer movie, and doesn't try to disguise itself as any type of drama. It is what it is, and the actors and director Wolfgang Petersen know it and decide to have fun with it.

The story's simple enough: a rogue wave hits a cruise ship packed with passengers playing poker, listening to Fergie from the Black Eyed Peas (she plays the role of a lounge singer), and celebrating New Year's Eve. The wave strikes, the ship turns over, and now what's supposed to be the floor becomes the ceiling and the only way out is through the bottom of the ship.

A small group decides to disobey the Captain's orders and leave the ballroom in search of a way off the doomed ship. While everyone else remains inside the supposedly safe ballroom, 10 strike out on their own.

The cast (including Kurt Russell, Emmy Rossum, Josh Lucas, Richard Dreyfuss, Jacinda Barrett, Mike Vogel, Kevin Dillon, Mia Maestro, Jimmy Bennett and Freddy Rodriguez) should all be applauded for getting into the spirit of the film and putting their lives on the line to give audiences an adrenaline-pumping treat. The effects are all first-rate and there's a decent amount of armrest-clenching moments.

"MISSION: IMPOSSIBLE III"
GRADE: ***

The Mission Impossible franchise is the perfect summer film because of its two strong suits: exotic locales and enormous explosions, usually tied in with some eye-popping stunts as well.

Mission: Impossible III has its own mission, to open up the popcorn-movie season, and it pulls it off beautifully.

Tom Cruise's Ethan Hunt performs feats of agility and toughness, whether defending the Chesapeake Bay Bridge from missile assault or swinging like Tarzan between Shanghai skyscrapers, or a helicopter chase through a German wind farm.

Director J.J. Abrams (best known for his work on television's spy show Alias and Lost) is a self-professed fan of the television show, and it shows. He even inserts a romantic plotline involving Hunt's kidnapped wife, usually a no-no for a macho action flick like this.

The bar for on-screen villains has been set a little higher after Philip Seymour Hoffman's performance in this one, who is hell-bent on hurting Hunt after he dangles Hoffman out of a plane during another mission to save the world. Nothing is as it seems, and there are traitors everywhere, including in the IMF system itself.

The summer movie season has arrived, and this one is difficult to top as far as action end visuals go.

"UNITED 93"
GRADE: ****

A question passed around at social gatherings around the country the past few weeks was "Is it too soon for a movie like 'United 93'?" Some feel that the wounds of 9/11 are still gaping, that it's too painful to be reminded of what this country endured.

In Stoneham Salamander days at Middlesex Fells

The Middlesex Fells is home to numerous vernal ponds and the unique wildlife that depend on them, including fairy shrimp, dragonflies, spotted salamanders, spring peepers, great blue heron and red foxes.

Why are these creatures important to our environment and what are they doing during the springtime?

Salamander Days is the Visitor Center theme for the entire month of May. On Saturdays and Sundays, from 12:00 noon to 4:00 p.m., the fifteen minute documentary Vernal Ponds by the Cape Ann Vernal Pond Team will be shown upon request at no charge.

Vernal Ponds is an introduction to vernal pond ecology, filmed entirely on Cape Ann. It demonstrates the importance of undervalued wetlands as a wildlife habitat. The video was the winner of three merit awards at the 23rd International Wildlife Film Festival.

Photographs taken during this spring's salamander migration in the Middlesex Fells by local photographers Steve Gyurina and Hope-Valerie Pashos will be on display.

The Botume House Visitor Center is located at 4 Woodland Road in Stoneham on the east bank of Spot Pond, which is less than a mile south of the Stone Zoo and across the street from the former Boston Regional Medical Center.

PROFESSIONAL TO THE CORE

Steak tips in Wilmington

"At age 87, Evelyn Ferrara decided that 'the time was right for me to retire,'" notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"While the professional life of this Wilmington resident included office work and teaching dance, Mrs. Ferrara says, 'waitressing is the most satisfying work I've done. I've worked in some good houses.'"

"Ferrara started her career at the Town Lyne House (now Spinelli's) on Route 1 in Lynnfield. She also worked seasons at the Hollywood Beach Hotel in Florida and the Mount Washington Resort in New Hampshire. Her longest employer - 37 years - was at the Hilltop Steakhouse in Saugus - the restaurant best known for its giant neon cactus, fiberglass cows, and generous portions.

"Frank Giuffrida hired me in the late 1960's," Ferrara said. "It's such a pleasant place to work. The people there have always been wonderful, from the management to the kitchen staff. They are great, and I will miss them."

"What made her job so satisfying?"

"I enjoyed every bit of it," Ferrara said. "The contact with the public is a great experience. And there is a great deal of freedom. There are only a few rules to follow - you're on your own. How you handle yourself is up to you. And the people, definitely, I had a group of ladies who came in every week. We became friends."

"When asked what advice she'd give to new waitstaff, Ferrara responded, 'People who go out to eat are looking to relax. There are very few grumpy people. If you have a problem, know that it will disappear in an hour or so. The most important parts of the job are efficiency and a pleasant attitude. They make everything run so smoothly.'"

"So, after such a long and enjoyable career, what made Evelyn Ferrara decide it was time to retire? 'Old bones don't like a lot of changes.'"

"The grandmother of two says she looks forward to 'doing a little writing and household chores. And, soon it will be spring. My husband and I will be able to work outside.'"

"Retirement will also allow Ferrara the chance to enjoy going out to eat some more."

"Of course," she said with a smile in her voice, "I am a little bit critical."

Academy award in Reading

"Cheryl A. Johnson, CMC, Town Clerk of the Town of Reading, has been accepted into the First Level Membership of the HMC Master Municipal Clerk Academy," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The Master Municipal Clerk Academy was established to further professional education of municipal clerks and to enhance their skills as needed to meet the challenges of the office of municipal clerk. Every one to four years, Academy members have to demonstrate that they have actively engaged in educational and professional participation that keeps them current with the changing events in the local government scene."

"The Academy member is required to obtain a specific number of points through completion of recognized institute or college courses, completion of seminars and workshops offered by other professional associations, teaching and writing in the profession, attendance at professional meetings and conferences, and honors and awards received for specific achievements. Approximately 15 percent of over 10,300 members of the International Institute of Municipal Clerks have qualified for the Master Municipal Clerk Academy Program."

HMC President Susan L. Morrow, MMC, Municipal Clerk of Plainfield Charter Township, Michigan, announced, "I am honored to welcome Ms. Johnson as a member in the FIRST LEVEL MEMBERSHIP of the HMC Master Municipal Clerk Academy. She has demonstrated and obtained career development goals which will aid her in maintaining the quality of excellence required in today's public officials and administrators."

On the same 'Paige' in Woburn taking its lead from Burlington and other communities in Massachusetts," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Mayor Thomas McLaughlin is foregoing the city's traditional method for legal services by announcing he intends to retain the Boston law firm of Kopelman & Paige."

"Kopelman & Paige is a well-known and established Boston law firm that now provides legal services to approximately 120 other cities and towns in Massachusetts," wrote McLaughlin, in an interview via e-mail. "They specialize in all areas of municipal law."

"The firm currently represents 12 other communities in the Middlesex region, including Burlington, Belmont, Watertown and North Reading."

"According to its website, 'The mission of Kopelman and Paige, P.C. is to provide our clients with the highest quality legal services and personal attention, in a timely and cost-effective manner. We provide cities and towns across the Commonwealth with a level of in-depth knowledge and expertise that only a municipal specialist attuned to statewide trends can provide."

"Our goal of building economies of scale into our practice and providing a full range of legal services enables both small and large communities to approach legal issues in a sophisticated, proactive, and cost-effective manner. As seasoned advocates and skilled negotiators, we at Kopelman and Paige, P.C. remain sensitive to the range of issues facing our clients, and to the unique cost constraints of municipal government."

IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION, AND THERE ALREADY

Focus plus in Burlington

"South Asian cultures will continue to be brought into the curriculum," said teachers, administrators, and parents at a recent informational night, notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"About 20 people attended the meeting at the Burlington Public Library."

"Phyllis Dubina, curriculum specialist of the Burlington Public Schools, said the focus of the group is to connect all grades through the cultures of South Asia, especially India."

"I think the history and culture of Europe is important," but now it really isn't as important as Asia," said Stephen Preston, former Glen principal and chairman of the Burlington Scholarship Foundation. "I was in the back of my mind I thought more should be done with the Indian culture. It's something I've felt strongly about."

"Burlington has a large South Asian community, and about 12 percent of elementary students in the town are Indian," said Preston.

Kathy Lawless, former curriculum specialist, agreed that Burlington teachers should expand their focus outside the Western World.

"Our new teachers are still mainly taught the Western culture," said

Lawless, who recently visited China on a trip which also included Preston. "But in terms of economics especially, Asia is the most important."

"Teachers have been 'very responsive to the professional development' that's been provided," said Lawless.

Still 'there for the kids' in Tewksbury

"She said she was there to make sure the students got everything they needed," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"I was there for the kids," Ruth Perrin said.

"School Committee member Ruth Perrin is retiring from her position after eleven years. She was appointed to the School Committee following the resignation of Debbie Ciampa in 1995. That same year, she had run for an open seat on the Committee, but placed third behind Ed Dick and Doug Sears. After Ciampa's resignation, the Board of Selectmen and School Committee chose Perrin as her replacement."

"Since then, Perrin has continually won re-election and has topped the ticket more than once, including her latest run in 2003. During her tenure, Perrin has worked on many projects, including the spearheading of the New Start Program, which she is most proud of. "It gives students a fresh start if they are failing a course," she said.

"Aside from her work on the School Committee, Perrin has also dedicated her time to another worthwhile cause involving children. For forty-one years Ruth and her husband, Fred, have had over 300 foster children in their home."

'Unselfish devotion' in North Reading

"North Reading's Director of Athletics, Alice MacInnis, was recently honored with a Distinguished Service Award from the National Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association (NIAAA)," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"The NIAAA presented its awards at the group's annual convention. MacInnis was one of just 14 recipients of this national award presented by the NIAAA. 'In grateful appreciation of outstanding service and unselfish devotion to interscholastic athletics.'"

"Ten recipients were NIAAA member athletic administrators and four other service awards were presented to non-NIAAA members who have contributed to the profession."

"Although 2005-2006 is MacInnis' rookie year as the A.D. for the Hornets, she has devoted her career to young athletes in Massachusetts for nearly 30 years. The bulk of her career was spent at Minuteman Regional Technical High School in Lexington, her hometown. She joined the faculty there as an aide in the physical education department after graduating from Boston State College in 1976."

"MacInnis advanced through the ranks at Minuteman as a physical education teacher as well as director of adult education programs at the school such as its pool club and swim club. She even did a stint in the dean's office and, when necessary, performed custodial services."

SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA
How many times was recently retired quarterback Doug Flutie named the Canadian Football League's Most Outstanding Player? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•KRISTEN MAHONEY

OF BURLINGTON, a member of the University of Massachusetts at Lowell softball team, was named to the All-Northeast-10 Conference softball team. Mahoney was also recognized as Pitcher of the Year and Lajoie Freshman of the Year. Mahoney recorded 18 wins during the regular season, with seven shutouts and a 1.77 earned run average. Over 150 2/3 innings, Mahoney struck out 129.

•JUNIOR UMASS OUT-

FIELDER VIKKI GUIDO OF WINCHESTER was named to the All-Northeast-10 Conference softball team, second team.

•READING'S MICHAEL

LA HARDY proved an invaluable addition as a rookie on the 2006 University of New Hampshire woman's lacrosse team. She opened the season in the starting lineup and started eight of 18 games overall. Statistically, Hardy recorded 10 ground balls, six draw controls and caused two turnovers. The speedy defender also recorded one point with a goal against Yale University on March 8. UNH finished the season with an 11-7 record overall.

"Need some help on this week's trivia question? The number is somewhere between 5 and 10."

•AUSTIN PREP'S MATT

O'LEARY is among the league's leaders in batting average in high school baseball with a .570 batting average. Also among the leaders is WOBURN'S PAT CAIN at

.560 and WILMINGTON'S ANDY STRATHAM at .539.

•THE BURLINGTON

HIGH ATHLETIC HALL OF FAME will induct six individual athletes, one coach, one benefactor and one team at its awards banquet scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 5 at 6 p.m. at the Burlington Marriott Hotel on Mall Road. The Class of 2006 inductees are Kevin Sullivan (track and soccer, 1982 graduate), Rick Coven (wrestling, 1983), Kevin Curtin (baseball, 1983), Nancy Toland Aiello (basketball and softball, 1985), Barry Yeadon (hockey and football, 1974) and Jay Bramanti (basketball and baseball, 1977). The coach is Rick Hayes, boys gymnastics for 35 years, and the benefactor is Bill Fahey. The 1983 wrestling team consists of Paul Vecchi, Kenneth Ryder, Robert Davis, Joe Wagner, Paul Gedick, Rick Coven, Ed Nadolny, Ron Travaglini, Art Pigott, Richard Marrama, Kevin Borselli, Greg Sturdevant, Scott Pigott, Mike Bauer, Kevin Keene, Eric Anderson, Mike Caterino, Stephen Anderson, Rich Theriault, Robert McLaughlin, Peter McAnespie, Rick Accardi and Jim Davis. The tickets are $40 per person and can be obtained by contacting athletic director Ed Gillis at BHS at 781-273-7077.

•THE BURBANK YMCA

5TH GRADE BOYS TRAVEL BASKETBALL TEAM of Reading concluded a very successful season this weekend by defeating Rockport by a score of 47-36 in the Championship Game of the Eastern Hoop League playoffs at Hamilton-Wenham High School. Reading had a fantastic regular season taking first place and was top seed in the playoffs with a record of 12-1. The team swept through the playoffs undefeated. Representing the Burbank YMCA were the following players: JARED BARROS, SPENCER BLAKE, BLAISE CHRISTO, BRIAN CALLAHAN, NATE CLARKE, DOMINIC DESIMONE, JD GREENFIELD, ANDREW JAMES, CAMERON O'MEARA, DYLAN SWAEBE, SCOTTIE TULLY AND ALEX VALENTE.

LIVE-LIFE-LOVE BENEFIT

Family and friends of William P. Kennedy Jr. request your support as he undergoes treatment for ALS (Lou Gehrig's Disease). Billy, a 53 year old father of three and a 20 year resident of Georgetown, grew up in Wakefield and was diagnosed in March 2004.

A benefit will be held on Friday, May 19 from 7 to 11 p.m. at the Elks Lodge, 24 Summer Street in Haverhill with a silent auction. For ticket information contact Beth Ogar at 978-887-9098.

The Live-Life-Love for Bill Kennedy Foundation has been established at the Georgetown Savings Bank, 2 East Main Street, Georgetown, Ma. 01833 (Tax ID # 01-0860056). Any and all support will have a positive impact for Bill and his family during this very difficult time and would be gratefully appreciated.

AUTHOR EVENT IN NORTH READING

The Friends of the Flint Memorial Library invite you to join them on Tuesday, June 6 at 7 p.m. for a presentation about the new collection of essays, Why I'm Still Married: Women Write Their Hearts Out On Love, Loss, Sex and Who Does the Dishes.

The program will be held at the library, 1437 Park Street, North Reading. Editors Jean Trounstein and Karen Propp, and contributor, Kathleen Aguerok, will read from the collection and answer questions.

Co-editor, Jean Trounstein is the author of Shakespeare Behind Bars: The Power of Drama in a Women's Prison and a book of poems, Almost Home Free. She teaches at Middlesex Community College. Karen Propp is the author of two memoirs, In Sickness and In Health: A Love Story and The Pregnancy Project: Encounters with Reproductive Therapy. Kathleen Aguerok recently published her third book of poems, Daughter Of. She teaches at Pine Manor College.

This well-received book also includes essays by Erica Jong, Julia Alvarez, Anne Bernays, and Bharati Mukherjee. It was on the Boston Globe bestseller list for over eight weeks this winter. Publishers Weekly said, "Each of the contributors to this thought-provoking collection has terrific stories and wisdom to share and they all do it masterfully."

After the reading, copies of the book will be available for signing. The event is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by the Friends of the Library, as part of "Friends Expanding Horizons." Before the reading, there will be a brief annual meeting to elect new officers to the Friends. For more information call 978-664-4942.

NARFE ANNUAL SPRING PARTY

The NARFE 507 Annual Spring Party will be held on June 21 at the Danversport

Yacht Club, Danvers, located off Route 62 just off Route 128.

The time is 11:30 a.m. for registration/cocktails, Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. The price is $20/person.

The menu is: Danversport Cheese Spread/assorted crackers, tossed garden salad, fresh baked rolls and choice of Chicken Danversport, sliced Roast Beef with Bordelaise Sauce, or fresh Boston Schrod topped with buttered bread crumbs.

All entrees are served with roasted potatoes and fresh vegetables. Coffee and tea.

Musical entertainment is provided by Don Samson. There will be open seating. Any questions call Party Chair Joanne Torosin at 781-324-0149 or email jtorosin13@comcast.net.

LYNNFIELD ART GUILD'S SPRING JUDGED SHOW

The public is invited to the Lynnfield Art Guild's annual spring fine arts and crafts show and sale on Saturday, May 20 at the Centre Congregational Church, Summer and Main Streets in Lynnfield.

The show will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. to coincide with Lynnfield's Geranium Fest on the town green. A reception for the artists, also open to the public and including refreshments, will be held on Friday evening from 7 to 9 p.m.

This is the Guild's only judged show and reflects the best work of its members in all mediums. All paintings exhibited are original works and all crafts are entirely hand done. Raffle tickets will be available for terrific prizes, including a Paul George watercolor beautifully framed (32"x40"), a sculptured brass candle holder by Guild President Chirs Talbot, a decoupage tray by Gil Roger and several area business and dining gift certificates.

Purchases of raffle tickets, which are $1 each or $5 for 6 tickets, may be made at the show with all proceeds going to the benefit of the Guild, including a scholarship for a Lynnfield High graduating senior pursuing art studies.

Membership in the Guild is open to all artists, craftspeople and photographers. Membership admission includes a monthly newsletter and demonstrations and full exhibiting privileges at the June and December shows. For more information call 781-324-7145.

SECRET GEMS OF MELROSE

A self-guided tour of carefully selected properties in the Bellevue/Lynn Fells Parkway, Melrose will be offered on Saturday, June 10 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. All properties are within easy walking distance of each other.

Tour staff and docents at each site will explain the history as well as the architectural details of the interiors and exteriors of these remarkable structures.

The tour will begin at the Beebe Estate, 2335 W. Foster Street, where day-of-the tour tickets, brochures, maps and parking information will be available.

Tickets are $15 in advance, $18 on day of tour, senior citizen price is $15. Advance purchases will be possible at RE/MAX Heritage, 653 Main Street and Sweet Thoughts, 504 Main Street.

A map and other additional information is available at www.MelroseHouseTour.org. For more information call 781-665-9672.

LOOK GOOD...FEEL BETTER SEMINAR

The Heritage Unit of the American Cancer Society will hold a Look Good...Feel Better seminar on Wednesday, May 24 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Winchester Hospital, Baldwin Park, 7 Alfred Street in Woburn. Pre-registration is required. To register call Melinda Taranto Garnis at 781-756-4760.

Look Good...Feel Better is a free program that teaches cancer patients hands-on cosmetic techniques to help them cope with appearance-related side effects from chemotherapy or radiation treatments.

Wig care, scarf and hat use, skin care and nail care will all be discussed and all participants will receive a free make-up kit. Cosmetologists certified or trained by the American Cancer Society will conduct the seminar which is non medical and does not promote any product line.

Preparing kids for summer camp

For most children, summer camp is what you might call a more-and-less experience: They may have made a lot more friends while away at camp, but they usually return home with a lot less of their clothing and other personal items that were originally packed.

Blame it on the camp laundry or just childish carelessness, but that tends to be what sleepaway camp boils down to.

So, what's a parent to do? The obvious answer: label absolutely everything.

But what parent has time to label each and every piece of clothing, camping equipment, toiletries and sporting goods that kids tote off to camp each summer?

One convenient option involves using labels and tags that come pre-personalized with the child's name, address and phone number. Parents save time and headaches, and kids are a lot more likely to bring home all those T-shirts, flashlight and sleeping bag they left with.

"One of the biggest challenges parents and children face when organizing for summer camp is packing and keeping track of personal belongings," notes Amy Lipton, an organizational expert, mom and CEO of Stuck on You.

Some of the company's camp-friendly products that can help keep kids organized include:

- Vinyl labels - Available in big and small sizes, these waterproof, UV resistant, peel-and-stick labels go on any smooth surface, from water bottles to sunscreen, from goggles to iPods to hairbrushes.

- Clothing tattoos - Permanent iron-on transfers are available in white, navy or pink and they stick on clothing the way that a logo is printed on a T-shirt.

- Bag tags - Brightly colored plastic tags make it easy to identify luggage. Mini-tags are also available to identify keys, pencil cases, and they can even be hooked onto zippers, so children can identify jackets, duffel bags and more.

- "Call me" cards - Pre-printed with a child's information, these cards are great to hand out to friends, easing the bittersweet emo-

Savory Tastes chef/owner supports student grades

CHEF STEPHEN BELL, and also owner of Savory Taste Cafe in Reading, stands along with high school students and cooks (l-r) Stacy Simone, Alyssa Smith, and Fletcher West. Bell has made it a requirement for all his high school employees to achieve A's and B's or they will be cut back on shifts.

Chef Stephen O. Bell grew up in Lawrence in a family where academics was the primary focus. He has two brothers who are both PhD's and today work at out-of-state universities.

Savory Tastes Cafe is entering its third year at 601 Main Street in Reading and as such employs many Reading residents and a number of Reading High School students.

One of Chef Bell's "rules" from the beginning is that any high school students who works at the restaurant are required to show him their report card and should they fail to achieve all A's and B's, then they will be cut back on shifts to ensure that working does not conflict with their school work and future.

In the restaurant's first three years, Chef Bell has had the pleasure of writing recommendations for and watching two of his employees graduate from high school and continue on to attend the University of California at Davis and LaSalle College.

These students often return to visit and work during summers, while one of three current high school students currently working at the restaurant the system seems to be thriving, as all three proudly brought their report cards to the restaurant to prove that they can maintain excellent grades while also being a valuable and productive member of the Savory Tastes staff.

Savory Tastes offers dinner only Tuesday through Thursday from 5:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m., Friday and Saturday from 5:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m., and Sunday from 5:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Call for reservations.

Savory Tastes is located at 601 Main Street in Reading at 781-942-8287 or go online and visit www.SavoryTastes.com

Meet Franklin

Franklin is a happy, inquisitive youngster who likes helping others. His social worker says he has a good heart. Franklin currently lives in a foster home where he likes trying his hand at cooking, and then sampling his creations. He gets along well with his foster family, but is in need of the stability of a permanent home.

Franklin, 11, is of Latino descent. Though bilingual, he is more comfortable understanding and speaking English. With the help of special education services and a small classroom setting, Franklin has made social and academic progress in the fourth grade. His favorite subjects are gym and history. Franklin has expressed a desire to work in a restaurant when he grows up.

In his spare time, Franklin has fun listening to music and singing. He enjoys watching cartoons and sports, such as baseball and basketball, on television. Franklin loves Monster trucks, I-Spy books, and electronic games and cars.

Franklin's social worker is seeking an adoptive family that can give Franklin the nurturing and consistency he needs, as well as advocate for him in school. Franklin will also benefit from a family's support as he continues to work in therapy on emotional issues related to his past. He would do well as the youngest or only child in a single or two-parent home where he could have the space to trust and build a relationship at his own pace. A big brother in the family could be a positive role model for Franklin. Franklin would also enjoy having a pet dog in the home. Franklin is legally free for adoption and currently has limited visits with his birth father. He is a lovable boy ready for the permanency of a forever family.

To learn more about Franklin, or about adoption in general, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange at 617-54-ADOPT (542-3678) or 1-800-882-1176. Ciaramella, Bringola join Realty Quest

John Nelson and Gina Ciaramella of Realty Quest Partners, Inc. located at 315 Main Street, Suite 202 in North Reading, Massachusetts are pleased to announce that Raffaele Ciaramella, Jr. and Tom Bringola recently joined their team of real estate professionals.

Raffaele "Ralph" Ciaramella is a long time resident of Wilmington. He earned his undergraduate degree in accounting from Bentley College and his graduate degree in business from Babson College. His vast amount of management and corporate experience in a service industry has served as a platform for him to fine tune his innate problem solving and customer service skills. He is a long time real estate investor with a thorough understanding of the financial aspects of real estate. You can contact Ralph Ciaramella at (978) 664-0566 or email him at ralph.ciaramella@hotmail.com.

Tom comes from a financial background with many years of management experience with some of the area's Computer and Biotech companies. Tom's real estate experience started in the mid 90's when he started to actively invest and manage his portfolio of residential rentals on the north shore. Tom's real estate and financial experience combine for a winning combination for either the first time home buyer or seasoned real estate investor. Tom was raised in both Reading and Wakefield and after college lived in many of the towns north of Boston. You can contact Tom Bringola at (978) 664-0566 or email him at bringola@comcast.net.

Movies

Director Paul Greengrass answers that question with the very first line of dialogue in the film, spoken in Arabic: "It is time."

Each moviegoer will have their own reaction to this piece. This reviewer can only describe his own experience, having sat through much of the film with a heart pounding in anticipation of the terror that was to come, and one that was filled with a sense of triumph as the houselights came back on.

The men and women on that doomed flight fought back, and in doing so saved the Capitol building, national leaders, and another symbol of America from destruction.

No one knows exactly what went on aboard that airplane bound from Newark to San Francisco. But Greengrass' screenplay is thoroughly researched and as realistic and accurate a depiction as one will ever see.

Shot in a documentary style, Greengrass keeps the film focused strictly on the events of that day. It would have been easy, even expected in Hollywood, to focus on one of the passengers and make them the hero, or create a perfect soundtrack for the ad campaign out of the famous 'Let's roll' quote uttered on board before the passengers charged the cockpit.

Instead, we don't even learn the names of most of these people, although they've been cast due to specific looks that make them easier to identify.

The confusion at the FAA and military headquarters as the days events unfold is frightening (one feels that somehow people in these positions always have a handle on things, and that's just not the case), and the news footage of the second plane hitting the Twin Towers is just as powerful a moment now as it was five years ago.

Faced with an impossible situation, these passengers decide they have nothing to lose and fight back before they can be turned into a weapon against the United States.

"United 93" creates a degree of suspense matched by few films, which is remarkable when you consider that we already know how it ends.

The cast is great, and many of the air traffic controllers who worked that day play themselves in the film.

"United 93" is a tribute to heroism, and leaves the viewer asking what would they have done if they were in the same impossible-to-comprehend scenario.

"THE SENTINEL"

GRADE: ***

The Sentinel is a very watchable thriller, and has enough intrigue to compensate for an all-too-happy ending.

Michael Douglas plays Secret Service agent Pete Garrison, who 20 years ago took a few bullets intended for President Reagan. He's now in charge of handling first lady Sarah Ballentine's (Kim Basinger) detail, and manages to have an affair with her.

Garrison learns from an old informant that an assassination plot against the president exists inside the Secret Service, and quickly Garrison becomes the chief suspect.

The investigation is handled by two agents, David Breckinridge (Kiefer Sutherland, in a role that's very close to his better known incarnation as Jack Bauer on television's '24'), a former Garrison protege, and Jill Marin (Eva Longoria), a rookie agent.

Director Clark Johnson, whose work on S.W.A.T. in 2003 appeared clunky, gracefully takes on the Secret Service and handles the action scenes gracefully.

The Sentinel is an enjoyable way to spend some time this spring.

PARKER RIVER NATIONAL WILDLIFE FESTIVAL

Parker River National Wildlife Refuge will host the 13th Annual Plover and Wildlife Festival to celebrate wildlife and wildlife conservation on Saturday, May 20th from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Refuge Lot 1 on Plum Island. Scheduled activities include live animals, butterfly and bird hikes, bird banding and wood carving demonstrations, kids crafts and activities, a refuge management tour and much more.

"Located in an area of dense and expanding human population and development, Parker River National Wildlife Refuge has special significance and value to migratory birds, other wildlife and people," states Frank Drauszewski, Deputy Refuge Manager. "The 13th Annual Plover and Wildlife Festival will help people gain a better understanding appreciation for the role the Refuge plays in supporting wildlife resources."

Admission to the refuge during the festival and all festival activities will be free. All ages and abilities are welcome.

For more information or a complete schedule of activities visit www.parkerriver.fws.gov or call 978-465-5753.

Masters Award for Previte and Shaw

Century 21 Spindler & O'Neil is pleased to announce that Century 21 LLC recently recognized both Mathew Previte and Valerie Shaw, sales associates with the office, as two of the System's top producers nationwide when it honored them with the coveted Emerald Level Century 21 Masters Award.

Emerald level status is awarded to top level agents. The pair successfully closed the approximately $20 million in most significant purchase of local properties during 2005. A gold plated lapel pin with emerald accent is awarded to the agents during an Awards Ceremony, in addition to a trophy and a personal invitation to attend a Century 21 Top Agent Retreat.

"Mathew and Valerie place their real estate wisdom and passion for life into their everyday business helping to make clients more comfortable with real estate transaction as they make what may be the most significant purchase of their lives," said David O'Neil.

From S-4

"MacInnis is very excited about her job as head of the 'Hornet Hive,' she said. 'I feel like the luckiest person in the world. It's a great job to have. I can't wait to come to school in the morning.'"

"The support provided to the student-athletes by their families and friends has left a positive impression on her. She praised the parents, staff, athletes, coaches and administrators who have warmly welcomed her as a member of the Hornet team."

"She enjoys the family oriented values exhibited at the games, pointing out that this past fall both the volleyball and field hockey teams were recognized by other coaches in the league with team sportsmanship awards for their exemplary behavior."

"One goal she would like to achieve at NRHS is creating a state-of-the-art weight room for use by students in both physical education classes and those on athletic teams."

WMHS Fine Arts Dept.

Very special 41st Spring Concert is Wednesday, May 17 -Last at old high school

WOBURN - The Woburn Memorial H.S. Fine Arts Department will present a show choir and concert choir for their 41st Annual Spring Concert on Wednesday, May 17 in the O'Donnell Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

"This is our very last concert at the old high school that is just around the corner," notes the Director of Fine Arts Robert Hodgson. "We're doing a very special and ambitious program."

This year, the concert will feature "Disney 50 Years" with groups focusing on The Little Mermaid, Lion King, Beauty and the Beast, Music from "Wicked" and Bohemian Rhapsody, Queen.

Adults is $4 and students and seniors are $3. Children under six are free.

Coming this Saturday, May 20, from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

Quannapowitt Yacht Club hosts open house

WAKEFIELD - Wakefield's Quannapowitt Yacht Club will host its first Open House of the season this upcoming Saturday, May 20, where people of all ages will have the opportunity to obtain additional information on sailing classes and other local boating events.

The Quannapowitt Yacht Club, (also known as the QYC) is located in Wakefield at the end of Linda Road, off North Avenue.

This Saturday's QYC Open House will take place at the club from 10:00 a.m. through 1:00 p.m. Two similar events have also been scheduled to take place on Wednesday, June 7, from 6:00 p.m. through 8:00 p.m., and on Saturday, June 10, from 10:00 a.m. through 1:00 p.m.

"If you have ever wondered about all those sailboats on Lake Quannapowitt, now is your chance to learn about this wonderful local

"You do not need to be a member of the QYC to take advantage of the youth or adult sailing lessons."

"However, there are many benefits to becoming a member, including: reduced fees for lessons; a place to moor your boat; year round social activities; and, an exciting place to sail all season long in a convenient location," a spokesperson added.

Sailing on Lake Quannapowitt can prove quite challenging due to the ever resource. And, sailing lessons just might be the perfect graduation or Father's Day gift," a QYC spokesperson explained.

Club members will be on hand to answer questions about the Youth Sailing Program, Adult Sailing Lessons, the schedule of racing and social events for the season, and becoming a member of the QYC.

Visitors to Saturday's Open House will also have the opportunity to tour of the facilities. Information on the historic yacht club will also be made available at the event.

Founded in 1895, the Quannapowitt Yacht Club is one of the oldest inland yacht clubs in the nation.
